

SEES NO BETRAYAL OF PARTY PLEDGES

WILSON SAYS DEMOCRATS NEED NOT HESITATE TO FAVOR TOLL EXEMPTION REPEAL.

NO BRITISH BARGAIN

President Resents Story of Compromise With English Secretary As Insult—House Debate Resumed.

Washington, March 30.—President Wilson today declared that on account of the contradictory statements in the Baltimore platform, democrats should have no hesitation in voting for the repeal of the Panama canal tolls exemption.

The president emphatically characterized the exemption as a subsidy and pointed out that one plank in the Baltimore platform expressed opposition to any subsidy direct or indirect, while another plank declared for tolls exemption. The president asserted there should be no doubt among democrats as to which should take precedence.

Situation in House.
The president reiterated that the exemption never was a policy of the democratic house because it had passed through a coalition of republicans and democrats voting against it on the grounds that it was a subsidy.

The president explained that even if the international situation which he referred to in his message had not arisen, he would have been opposed to the tolls exemption as against democratic doctrine.

He indicated, however, that if it were not for that international situation, he would not feel that it was proper for him to question the acts of a previous administration.

Wilson Resents Insults.
Mr. Wilson talked freely about the tolls controversy in congress and said that the story that he had entered into a bargain with Great Britain through Sir William Tyrrell, private secretary to Sir Edward Grey, was one of a number of insults that had been introduced in the congressional debate.

The president declared he wanted to express his regret that what had promised to be a dignified contest with genuine differences of opinion, seemed to be degenerating in his opinion in an attempt to discredit the administration. "The remark that while it made all the more certain the result in favor of the administration, he thought it a great pity that public affairs should be handled in that way. He did not think all the opponents of the repeal felt that an honest contest had been conducted and he did not understand the motives for it."

No Fear of Friction.
The president said he had no anxiety as to any friction over the results and referred to the repeal contest as not a "capital operation," but just a "consequence."

Mr. Wilson let it be known that he was unqualifiedly opposed to any compromise amendment such as have been proposed in the senate. He is for a straight repeal without equivocation.

Verifies Wilson.
London, March 30.—Sir Edward Grey, British foreign secretary, in the house of commons today denied the published allegation that the action of President Wilson in regard to the question of the Panama canal tolls was the result of conversations between the governments of the United States and Great Britain.

"It has been asserted," he said, "that under the terms of the understanding Great Britain had undertaken to assist President Wilson's policy in regard to Mexico. There is no foundation whatever for these reports and I am glad to say so."

Resume House Debate.
Washington, March 30.—Representative Doremus of Michigan, chairman of the democratic congressional committee, led off the fight on repealing the Panama tolls exemption in the house today. It was the third day of debate on the question.

Expressing regret that he differed with the president, he declared that Great Britain had admitted the American right to exempt coastwise trade from tolls.

"If we cannot grant free transit to our ships through the canal," he said, "it is because it accrues to England and not to ourselves." He declared that the Carnegie peace endowment, which derives an annual income of $500,000 from steel trusts, the national most active in rescuing the national honor by securing the repeal of the law that Great Britain had admitted we had a treaty right to enact."

GIVES REAL REASON OF REPEAL MEASURE

Failure of Administration to Handle Mexican Crisis the Real Reason.

By Winfield Jones.
Washington, D. C., March 30.—When President Wilson, in the last sentence of his recent message to congress urged repeal of free tolls, said "I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure," he admitted what every one has suspected, namely, that the failure of his Mexican policy of "watchful waiting" had made necessary a surrender of American rights at Panama.

A former President, just as patriotic, the last secretary of state, just as capable and as an American, just as able to take the position that when we exempted American coastwise vessels and provided for the free passage of battleships and other government craft this government was clearly within its rights, yet it means a treaty, within its rights, of the failure of a foreign policy, and to please nations that are our commercial rivals, although it is doubted if they have much concern over what we mean to do with our coastwise trade.

His policy, however, which traffic in our coastwise trade, the government's policy must be reversed, congress must turn a somersault, and this country be humiliated in the eyes of the world. Even the democrats in congress predict that the demand for foreign government will increase if we once renounce our right to regulate domestic commerce.

The president's position would have been stronger, and his sincerity less open to question, had he discovered that the law was "in plain contradiction of the treaty" before he made his famous speech as a Presidential candidate to the farmers of Washington Park, New Jersey, on Aug. 15, 1912, pointing out the advantage of free tolls as a regulator of transcontinental railroad rates, and with the Baltimore free toll plank in mind, declaring that "our platform is not classes to catch the eye of business men who talk one way and vote another will be retired to private life."

It would be illuminating to publish these two speeches in parallel columns. Ex-Senator Fred T. Dubois, of Idaho, was a member of the senate at the time of the ratification of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and voted for its ratification. I recall the deliberation of that treaty and the debate and the fact that he did not doubt as to the meaning of the treaty. I did not myself and I do not believe that my colleagues, generally speaking, understood that this treaty in any way provided the United States of the right to favor its coastwise trade or deprive it of what I consider the sovereign power to deal with its domestic commerce. In my opinion, had any such view prevailed the treaty would have been rejected.

Moreover, the construction which has been placed upon this treaty not only by those who voted for its ratification but by the whole American people, practically speaking, ought to be conclusive.

It is too late now to barter away upon a false construction the interests of the whole American people and those who undertake to do so have to answer for their acts to the people.

The democratic party clearly and unmistakably declared in favor of free tolls for coastwise trade, and third party platform did the same and the candidate of the republican party stated the bill providing for free tolls.

If a thorough, complete and universal construction could be placed upon a treaty it has been given to this treaty and I regard the effort to salvage the interests of the people in the United States from a false construction as most unwise and indefensible."

ROADS RESOLUTION SENT TO TOWNSHIPS

Forms for Voting State Aid at Spring Town Meetings Sent Out by Highway Commission.

Madison, Wis., March 30.—The state highway commission is sending to township officers a form of resolution which may be used at the spring town meeting in voting taxes for state aid road or bridge construction. The commission says that no appropriation of less than $400 may be made by a town for any one stretch of road to be surfaced with concrete, stone, gravel or shingles. According to the commission, this provision was made in the interest of economy in construction and to prevent excessive moving cost.

There will be $1,200,000, plus 25 per cent of the proceeds of the automobile tax (about $50,000), making $1,250,000 in all, available for state aid in 1915. Whether or not a town shall participate in state aid distribution for 1915 is determined by not voting taxes for state aid work at the April town meeting, or legally called special meeting held prior to Sept. 30.

MONTE CARLO AERIAL RALLY TO BRING OUT NOTED AIRMEN

Paris, March 30.—The Monte Carlo aerial rally, when aeroplanes from most of the capitals of Europe will converge by aerial routes with the gambling resort as their goal, commences next Wednesday, the new style meet lasting from April 1 to April 15.

Competitors will start from Paris, London, St. Petersburg, Vienna, Brussels, Rome, Madrid, etc., and, officially timed, each will try to make the swiftest trip to Monte Carlo. Bird men starting from Paris will have to fight the detours so that the total flight will be as long as that by a St. Petersburg airman, for instance. Distances from all the cities will thus be equalized. There are numerous handicaps.

CIGARETTE IS FEATURE OF AVIATOR'S MEMORIAL

Paris, March 30.—France's first "cigarette monument" today was unveiled on the cliffs overlooking the English Channel at Calais. It is in honor of Hubert Latham, the aviator whose figure of the late birdman shows him looking toward Dover, a cigarette in his hand. Latham was an incessant smoker and when picked up in the channel after his unsuccessful attempt to cross it in an aeroplane he was calmly puffing away.

ESSMANN ARRAIGNED IN MADISON COURT PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Former State Official Charged With Embezzling Public Funds Claims He Is Innocent.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, March 30.—William L. Essmann, former superintendent of public property, pleaded not guilty to the charge of embezzling $752 of state money when arraigned in municipal court. His bond fixed at $2000 was furnished by his wife. The preliminary hearing was set for April 15.

POLICY IN MEXICO IS SCORED BY WILSON

Former Ambassador at Mexico Accuses Washington Administration With "Rank Inconsistency."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 30.—Henry Lane Wilson, former ambassador to Mexico, whose recall was a sensational feature of the recent Mexican diplomatic troubles, accused the Washington administration of "rank inconsistency" in its Mexican policy, in an address before the Saturday Lunch club here.

"The administration's policy in refusing to recognize a new government based on violence can be justified only as a policy of expediency and not as a policy of expediency," he said. "Look at this government's recognition of new republics in Peru, China, and elsewhere, resulting from revolution, and then decide for yourself whether the present administration is not open to the charge of inconsistency in handling the Mexican situation."

Mr. Wilson painted a black picture of conditions in Mexico and of the disorders that may be expected from a constitutionalist regime. The sending of John Lind to Mexico City was described as an act "not precedent in the history of this nation."

The speaker declared that the appointment of Lind, a man of no diplomatic training, was offensive to the Mexicans, thus further "irritating our own to ridicule." He asserted that the American government was largely responsible for the damage to American property for its policy of non-intervention. By refusing to interfere, allowing bandits to overrun the streets and disorder to reign, this government, he declared, "becomes in a way accessory to crime committed in Mexico."

Mr. Wilson credited General Porfirio Diaz, for thirty years iron-handed ruler of Mexico, with being able to restore peace had he been able longer to continue in power. "This is not to continue in power," he said, "but to continue in power as an honest cause and anticipate a miscarriage of justice. The speaker described the various stages of the revolution, giving a graphic account of stirring events."

CANVASSED VOTE IN LITTLE ROCK TODAY

Margin of Eight in Nominating Associate Justice in Southern City Is Being Investigated.

Little Rock, Ark., March 30.—Official reports of the county central committee which will meet today to canvass the vote cast in the democratic primary election of last Wednesday are awaited to determine whether United States Senator James P. Clarke has been renominated as justice of the supreme court.

With about 100 small townships missing, the normal vote of which does not extend far beyond the city, the canvassers gave Mr. Kirby a lead of eight votes in 131,112 reported.

TOKEGAWA DECLINES EMPEROR'S REQUEST

President of House of Peers Will Not Undertake the Formation of a New Japanese Cabinet.

Tokyo, Japan, March 30.—Prince Iyasato Tokogawa, president of the house of peers, declined to undertake the formation of a new Japanese cabinet, although requested to do so by the emperor.

The elder statesman thereupon submitted to his majesty a resignation of his office, which the emperor accepted. The emperor's request was made after the resignation of the late prime minister, Prince Kato.

ASQUITH TAKES OVER SEELY'S PORTFOLIO

BRITISH PREMIER ACCEPTS THE RESIGNATION OF SECRETARY FOR WAR TODAY.

FRENCH ALSO RESIGNS

Chief of Imperial General Staff, and Sir John Ewart, Adjutant General, Definitely Quit Service.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, March 30.—Colonel John Seely, secretary for war, resigned his portfolio in the British cabinet today and his resignation was accepted by the premier.

Premier Asquith himself decided to take the secretaryship of war in place of Colonel Seely.

Sir John French, chief of the imperial general staff, of the British army, and Sir John Ewart, adjutant general to the forces, definitely resigned from the service today.

David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, was taken ill at Walton-on-Thames, Surrey, where he passed the week-end playing golf. The chancellor, it was stated, was unable to participate in the critical discussion in the house of commons today on the situation, brought about by the resignation of army officers in Ulster.

The debating power of Mr. Lloyd George had been regarded as a great asset by the government.

START NEW CHAPTER IN KENTUCKY FEUDS

Fifteen Breathitt County Men Face Trial for Assassination of Sheriff Callahan.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Winchester, Ky., March 30.—Another chapter in the history of Breathitt county feuds began here today when a special term of the circuit court convened for the trial of fifteen men who are charged with the assassination of Sheriff Callahan of Callahan, Cal.

The men were indicted in 1912, and the cases of those accused have been dragging through the courts ever since. Two men have been convicted.

These two have fled from the new trial, and it is probable that a decision in the cases will be handed down during the special term of the court.

Nearly all of the accused men are under 30 years of age. It is said that the evidence in the case was gathered by Lillian Gross, a daughter of Callahan.

NAVIGATORS EXPECT AN EARLY OPENING

Lake Shippers Anxiously Await Breaking of Channel in Straits.—United States' Report.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., March 30.—When will the straits open this year? That is the big question among navigators all along the Michigan. Weather bulletins showing that ice is beginning to break away from the big fields are taken as favorable indications that traffic will be opened this year, but not before perhaps a month or two.

An opening has been forced through the straits on the following dates in past years:

1904—May 1, 1905—April 18, 1906—April 11, 1907—April 4, 1908—April 22, 1909—April 14, 1910—April 12, 1912—April 18, 1913—April 19.

In the ten years in which the record was kept the earliest opening was in 1907, when boats went through on April 1.

The fourth ice bulletin issued by the weather bureau shows that there is still ice at the straits, but it is beginning to break up at the east end. It is considered possible that the passage from Milwaukee to Buffalo should be open by Easter Sunday.

According to local lake men there will be no rush to open business this year as there was last spring. The threat of coal strikes have resulted in inactivity here. Many of the winter storage boats in Buffalo have not been unloaded yet.

The United States bulletin on the ice situation reads in part: "The fields have practically disappeared over the extreme western portion of Superior, but extend beyond vision off Keweenaw point and some fields are reported off Marquette, also over the eastern portion where they are moving with the winds. The ice in Whitefish Bay is solid. March 29, the ice ranges from 18 to 24 inches and is not snow covered. In Green Bay the ice remains solid. In Michigan the only fields over the central and southern portion are off South Haven. The ice at the straits continues firm, except at the extreme east portion where it is breaking off. In Huron extensive fields are reported from Presque Isle south to Thunder Bay, over the central and extreme southern portions, also along the eastern shore. St. Clair river is open to Recors Point. The ice has been unning freely from Lake St. Clair, and the river is open to the west. Erie the fields have broken up and are disappearing; there is more open water along the south shore and the fields are drifting with the winds. There has been no material change over the eastern portion. In Ontario the fields are rapidly disappearing, and some of the harbors are open."

YORKSHIRE MINERS START BIG STRIKE

Thirty-five Thousand Coal Miners Demand Minimum Rate of Wages—Expect Long Struggle.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Leeds, Eng., March 30.—Thirty-five thousand coal miners in the Yorkshire pits laid down their tools today demanding the introduction of a minimum rate of wages. They have been on strike for a further 35,000 men who will quit work on Thursday.

The Miners' Federation of Great Britain has given its support to the strike and a long struggle is expected. Later in the day it was announced that another 100,000 miners had been given notice to quit work, bringing the total to 170,000.

HOLD EXAMINATION FOR V. DE LORENZO

Fake Testimony Against Beloit Italian on Federal Charges of Receiving Stolen Goods.

Testimony in the examination of Vincent DeLorenzo, Beloit, who is held in federal custody on charges of receiving stolen goods from freight car while in interstate transit, started before United States Commissioner Stanley in the municipal court today.

DeLorenzo, who is charged with the receipt of stolen goods, pleaded not guilty to the charges and the hearing is being held to decide if there is sufficient evidence to hold him on the charges for trial in the United States court at Eau Claire.

Indicted by the grand jury, Assistant United States District Attorney Japman prosecuted the case. After hearing the evidence and testimony against DeLorenzo it is decided that there was sufficient grounds to hold him for trial and his bonds were set at fifteen hundred dollars and his trial will be held in the federal court at Eau Claire some time in June.

Herbert S. Mills Admits He Is Making Effort to Buy Chicago National League Club.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Cincinnati, March 30.—A local attorney said to be representing Herbert S. Mills of Chicago has opened negotiations with Charles P. Taft for the purchase of the Chicago National League club. The price has been fixed by Mr. Taft upon his holdings and it is said he is awaiting an answer from Mr. Mills.

Mills Admits Plan.
Chicago, March 30.—Herbert S. Mills admitted today that he was the head of a local syndicate formed to purchase the stock of the Chicago National League baseball club from Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati.

"It is true we have begun negotiations for the purchase of the club, but I do not care to discuss the subject until I know definitely whether the deal will go through," said Mr. Mills. "We are of the opinion that the team should be owned by Chicago men and we have the money to buy it if the price is fair. That is all we have to say at present."

Is Wealthy Manufacturer.
Mr. Mills is a wealthy manufacturer and for several years has taken a keen interest in baseball, yachting and other sports. He formerly was head of the Columbia Yacht Club and a well known amateur yachtsman. He is 44.

ARREST O'DONNELL AS HERO'S SLAYER

Brother of Trades Council President Charged With Killing Chicago Beachcomber.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, March 30.—Edward D. O'Donnell, brother of Simon O'Donnell, president of the Chicago Trades Council, was arrested today and was booked on a charge of murdering Peter De Rock, a beachcomber who was credited with having saved more than fifty persons from drowning in Lake Michigan.

De Rock was shot and killed during a fight Saturday night in a saloon. Witnesses told the police O'Donnell fired the shot which killed De Rock. On the advice of his attorney, O'Donnell refused to talk after his arrest. The police believe the prisoner will plead self-defense.

Fighting Between Rebels and Federals at Torreón Still Continues Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, March 30.—Dr. Lambert, an American physician, arrested by Mexican authorities at Los Mochis after a constitutionalist officer, upon whom he had performed an operation had died, has been released as the result of the energetic action of Secretary Daniels. On the recommendation of the vice consul at Nogales, Mr. Daniels ordered Rear Admiral Howard to send a warship to Topolampito. The cruiser New Orleans steamed at once and Dr. Lambert was released.

Americans Released.
Charge O'Shaughnessy reported the release of three Americans, Gottschmidt, Donahue and Crosswhite, held in charges of aiding the rebels. Enrta freed them.

Though the constitutionalists heretofore have been fairly successful in maintaining order in Sonora, raiding and looting by bands of marauders is reported. The Sherman and Williams ranches, owned by Americans, have been robbed, but the authorities have dispatched an expedition to recover the property.

MERCHANT ATTEMPTS TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Marinette Lumberman in Critical Condition From Drinking Carbolic Acid.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Marinette, March 30.—J. W. Jordan, a member of the firm of L. H. McCormick and company, one of the leading lumber firms of this city, tried to commit suicide yesterday by drinking carbolic acid. He was found unconscious in his room and was immediately rushed to a hospital. Although his condition is critical, hopes for his recovery are entertained.

Recently his business partner, L. H. McCormick, son-in-law of the late M. Stephen, died at Battle Creek, Mich., after an operation.

Brooding over the unexpected death of his business partner, he said to have been the cause for the deed.

CAN RIDE CARS FREE RATHER THAN ADMIT PAYING SMALLER FARE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Toledo, O., March 30.—One-tenth of one per cent of patrons of the Toledo railway and light cars are taking advantage of the opportunity to ride free pending the result of injunction proceedings brought by the company against the city and federal court.

An ordinance requiring the company to carry all passengers at straight 3 cent fares became effective at 12:30 this morning. The company instructed conductors to refuse 3 cent fares. The passengers who refused to pay more were carried free. Acceptance of 3 cents would be formal acceptance also of the low fare ordinance.

MILWAUKEE ZOO KEEPER IS EXPERT WEATHERMAN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., March 30.—Edward H. Bean, keeper of the Milwaukee zoo, is now saying "I told you so." Early in the fall he predicted a light winter.

Mr. Bean doesn't secure his weather wisdom from a study of costly, complex and non-understandable interiors of weather kiosks, but from "conversation" with his animals.

Early in November he spent a half a day in the bear's den. When he emerged he smiled and said, "It's going to be easy on the coal piles."

PASSION WEEK SHOWS DIVINITY OF CHRIST

REV. HENRY WILLMANN DELIVERS APPROPRIATE SERMON FOR CLOSE OF LENT.

TIME FOR SELF-STUDY

Lesson of Savior's Suffering Should Cause Christians to Examine Their Lives for Weaknesses.

That conclusive proof of the divinity of Christ, which in its effect on the individual Christian should result in a careful personal introspection for the purpose of analyzing our weaknesses and sin was emphasized by Rev. Henry Willmann in an appropriate sermon for the close of the Lenten season at Trinity church Sunday morning.

"The passion of the week saw the culmination of the struggle between Jesus and the Jews," said Rev. Willmann. "It depicted the majesty in which he repulsed the attacks of his would-be murderers. And these mad attacks drew forth series of profound sentences in which are unmistakably shown that Christ is divine. It deals with no ordinary passion; no ordinary death. It is the passion of one who claims to be divine."

"How is it that in the secrecy of our own self-consciousness we know that our sins are being washed away? Because of the redemption through the suffering of the Son of God on the Cross. Because we realize that through Christ God has passed the church in his own blood."

Rev. Willmann outlined the fact that our sins are being washed away by his supernatural power. He was without sin and could consistently claim that he was without sin. Sinlessness on the other hand, is incompatible with human nature and the speaker called attention to the fact that the most holy men acknowledged their sin, the sense of sin being a part of the morality of humanity. The saints were always alive to sin, and their writings team with penitence. Great prophets and teachers never place themselves on a plane above the people whom they exhort. They rather recognize their own deficiencies and are humbly penitent.

The good man is full of regrets and discontent because he is so far from his ideal. Christ was the ideal in himself, being perfect and without sin. There was no necessity for his striving for a higher conception.

Realizing the sinfulness of Christ the question arises how can he be our example. He is sinless, we are sinners. To imitate Christ as we are is an impossibility, but he offered himself as a propitiatory sacrifice for our sin.

The first requisite for an attainment as near as we can to the ideal of Christ is that we believe in him. Only the man who accepts his atoning word can imitate the example of Christ. Only to those who believe is he an example of conduct.

Accepting the divinity of Christ as is shown by the passion we may ask: "What do these things mean for me? What is the practical relation of the sinless Jesus to me?"

"At this season we should examine ourselves in the matter of sin. If Christ expiated for the sin of the world, what about my own faulty habits and weaknesses. What about my own sin. If there is still sin in me, holding me back, now is a time to cast it off and rest secure in the forgiveness of Christ. And if you rest secure that your sins have been forgiven, there must be some personal weaknesses that you can study to correct to secure a fuller realization of the redemption which quickens us. Keep a good passion-tide and prepare for Easter. Trust in the power of Christ, of his cross and passion. It is a time for penitence and expiation."

LINK AND PIN

This year's reports on railroads demonstrate the magnitude and importance of this branch of commerce, and statistics prove that an average of about one in every twelve persons in this country either work for the railroad or is dependent upon one who does.

The total miles of railroad in America is given as being 360,359.34, which is divided up into 244,178.64 miles of main track and 116,179.70 of second tracks, branches and sidings. Men actually employed in railroad work, not including employees of switching or terminal companies, locomotive work, steel plants and supply houses, number 669,808. One-eighth of the total wealth of the United States is invested in railroads, the amount being approximately twenty billion dollars, or fifty times the cost of the Panama canal. This amount is owned by five hundred thousand stockholders, showing that an enormous amount of capital is invested and the way is distributed. The taxes on railroads during the year 1912 was $120,873,472 and the wages paid out during last year reach over one billion three hundred million dollars. It has been estimated that a billion passengers had been carried in one year, almost twelve trips for every person in the United States. Figuring on a mile's distance as a unit, last year there was over 253 billion tons carried, or an average of almost three thousand tons, for every person in the United States.

Here Is Good News for Stomach Victims

Some very remarkable results are being obtained by treating stomach, liver and intestinal troubles with pure vegetable oils, which exert a cleansing, soothing and purifying action upon the lower bowels, removing the obstructions of poisonous fecal matter and gases and preventing their absorption by the blood. This done, the food is allowed free passage from the stomach, fermentation ceases and stomach troubles quickly disappear.

George H. Mayr, for twenty years a leading Chicago druggist, cured himself and many of his friends of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles of years' standing by this treatment, and so successful was the remedy he devised that it has since been placed in the hands of druggists all over the country, who have sold thousands of bottles.

Though absolutely harmless, the effect of the medicine is sufficient to convince any one of its remarkable effectiveness, and within 24 hours the sufferer feels like a new person. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold here by J. P. Baker & Son.

OBITUARY

Adelbert Burr. Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Handy, who reside on Arch street, received word on Saturday to the effect that Adelbert Burr passed away at his home in Grand Rapids, Michigan, late last week. Mr. Burr was born in Magnolia, Sept. 14th, 1853. He leaves one brother, G. W. Burr, of Akron, Ohio; one sister, Lovina Burr, and a half brother, Mr. Handy, both of Janesville. Mr. Handy left for Grand Rapids, and intends to bring the remains here for burial. Notice of funeral later.

Gunder Christofferson. Gunder Christofferson passed away this morning at 8:15 from his home, 1604 Magnolia avenue. He has lived in this city but a month, having moved from Madison, where he was a resident for many years. He was born in Norway and came to America when 26 years of age. He leaves one son, besides his wife, and was 38 years of age at his death. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon from the home.

Miss Helen Caldwell. Miss Helen Caldwell, age 64, passed away at 4:20 this morning at her nephew's home, Neil Kettle, in the town of Janesville. Paralysis was the cause of her death. She was born December 15, 1849, in the town of Janesville. She leaves two nephews, Neil and George Kettle, of the town of Janesville, and two nieces, Mrs. Fred Schumacher of Janesville and Mrs. Burt Hodge of Milwaukee. Funeral announcement later.

Mrs. Ursula Mosher. Funeral services for Mrs. Ursula Mosher were held from the home of her brother, W. G. Yeomans, 527 Caroline street, Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. C. J. Roberts officiating. The flowers were many and beautiful. Songs were rendered by Miss Loraine and Messrs. George and Edward Ward. Miss Hattie Kueck played at the organ. The remains were placed in the Emerald Grove cemetery.

GLORIOUS HAIR

Always Attracts—Use Parisian Sage. Thin or Faded Hair Becomes Abundant and Radiant With Life.

Girls and women of all ages want to be charming, beautiful and attractive—it's their birthright—but unsightly, thin and lifeless hair destroys half the beauty of a pretty face.

If your hair is not attractive, is falling out, streaky, full of dandruff, too dry, or if the scalp itches and burns, don't delay—use Parisian Sage. Rub it well into the scalp. It will go right to the hair roots, nourish them, and stimulate the hair to grow strong and luxuriant. Parisian Sage removes dandruff with one application, and cleanses the hair of dirt, dust and excessive oil.

Parisian Sage gives the hair just what is needed to make it soft, fluffy, thick and gloriously radiant. It is sold in fifty cent bottles only by Smith Drug Co. and at all drug and toilet counters. Look for the trade-mark—"The Girl with the Auburn Hair." Accept no substitute.

FOR 47 years we have supplied seeds to the best gardeners in this vicinity. Now owing to a new postal ruling we can ship seeds by mail, prepaid, at our regular retail prices. No matter where you live you can get Helms Standard Seeds delivered to your door. Our new catalog makes ordering easy. Send for it.

Where We Buy Seeds

We contract for our seeds direct with the growers. Some seeds we get from California, some are Wisconsin grown, some we import, because we have found they are the best. One grower who furnishes us vine seeds has done nothing else but grow these particular seeds for over 40 years. We buy from responsible growers only, and are now placing our growing contracts for 1915 stocks.

Bulk Seeds

Helms' Standard Seeds are sold in bulk by the ounce and pound. You get what you pay for. We positively will not sell seeds of questionable quality. For years we have bought and sold seeds and watched results, and have learned which seeds are best suited to this climate and soil. Our garden guide, which is free with every order, gives growing directions for our local conditions.

Tested Seeds

We carefully test all our seeds for germination. They must pass the test or they are thrown out. We have a most modern seed tester that will hold from 80 to 100 tests at one time. We are always glad to show our tester and test records to anyone interested. You run no risks of getting poorly kept or leftover stocks here. We take the pains, you get the results.

Send For Catalog

Our new catalog is just out. Send for it. Now. Today. A postal will bring it. You will be surprised at our moderate prices. Garden time will soon be here. Get Helms' Standard Seeds and be prepared.

APPLETON DEFEATS JANESVILLE HIGHS IN TITLE CONTEST

EXTRA FIVE MINUTES WAS NEEDED TO DECIDE THE WINNER. SCORE 40 TO 33.

HARD-FOUGHT BATTLE

Bower City Champions Outplay Opponents Until Last Moments.

Janesville opened the state tournament at Appleton on last Thursday afternoon with a severe trimming, and they closed the meet on Saturday night by losing to the Appleton highs in an overtime conflict, 40 to 33.

Appleton highs won the first prize, with gold medals. Janesville secured second place with silver medals while Fond du Lac captured third place by their clean victory over Oshkosh Saturday night in the opening game and bronze medals. The Fond du Lac team also were awarded the banner for appearance and conduct. To say the least, the tournament this year has been the most successful meet ever staged at Lawrence College.

The teams appeared upon the floor about nine o'clock, and were somewhat nervous at shooting baskets. The entire south end of the gymnasium was occupied by Appleton highs, and spectators numbering very nearly six hundred. They were accompanied by a dozen Klaxon horns, bass drum and a hundred other horns. The support given the Appleton team was indeed the best shown throughout the meet, and as the Janesville players stated after the game, "The Appleton crowd was a big factor in our losing the last battle."

The Janesville champions were given good support by the Oshkosh delegation, and by the fifty or sixty college men who were betting their last roll on the Bower City champs. It is estimated that close to a thousand dollars was circulated in the pool hall Saturday before the game.

Harold Stuckney was determined to enter the championship game, if it was the last thing he could do for Janesville high. He did so, and was edged out upon the floor with a bad knee. He played a fast and aggressive game, but often stopped to nurse his injuries during the minutes of play. He was badly crippled, and in fact, the entire Janesville team was disabled. There is no ill-feeling toward the winning team, but Janesville feel they were outkicked.

First Half.

When time was called by Timer Fred Bushey for the game to start, the crowd was frantic. The play started rather slow, but after a minute or two high-top speed was noticeable. Wunderlick, at right forward, scored the first basket after two minutes of play. A minute then passed before a foul was called on Dalton. Bushey missed the throw. A signal worked and Atwood scored, tying the score. Hemming followed by a shot which filled the building with a roar. Bushey was going at top speed and dropped the ball through the net from the middle of the floor. Hemming was playing a great floor game at this moment. Shortly after he missed a free throw on a foul by Atwood. Stuckney followed by a shot at this point and after dribbling and passing with Atwood through the entire Appleton team, he dropped in a side shot, which put Janesville in the lead by four points. On a quick signal, Dalton and Stewart rushed up the floor, and the former scored easily. The game was so far all Janesville's, and the Appleton crowd were silent. Atwood, at center for Appleton, played in good form but was no match for Hemming. He got the jump at this time, and upon receiving the ball from Bushey, stood twenty feet from the basket, and taking his time, dropped the ball in the net for his team's second basket. The crowd failed to cheer as a foul was called on Hohenbeck. Hemming missed the throw. Appleton took a spurt and in rapid succession Bushey and Saecker counted a goal each. Atwood and Stuckney ceased the enthusiasm of the Appleton supporters, by scoring even in greater rapidity than were the previous goals made. Janesville led at this moment, 14 to 10. Atwood was playing in form now for the first time during the game. Hohenbeck and Atwood each fouled within the course of a minute, and Hemming missed the two attempts to score. The crowd's yell must have had something to do with his missing shot out of a trial, for in the other two games he was a sure shot from the foul mark. No attempt was made by Referee Schroeder to stop the disturbance. Hemming awoke after missing these two trials, and like a flash took the ball from one of the Appleton player's hands, and shot. The ball failed to touch the rim and was the prettiest basket of the game. Wunderlick and Bushey made the game look rather easy by this time. Every time Janesville scored they would come back with a long shot. They each counted again at this point. Atwood fouled, and Bushey counted, and the count of his era and head. An Appleton player stuck a finger in Dalton's left eye, which kept him from seeing the ball farther than five feet away the rest of the game. Both Atwood and Stuckney were playing under a handicap. Bushey resumed and Hemming scored his third basket of the game. Stuckney hurt his leg, and time was taken out for two minutes. Stewart closed Janesville's scoring in the first half by scoring in the first minute of brilliant floorwork. Ten seconds before time was called for the first half Bushey scored from the middle of the floor. He could barely throw the ball that far, but the shot was good and he won a good floor game, and shot at least three times as much as Janesville. Janesville led 20 to 15 at the end of this period.

Second Half.

The second half was neck and neck all the time. Atwood scored first and Stuckney second. Bushey was next, only to be followed by Hemming. Atwood scored and Janesville led. These five baskets came within the first two minutes after the half opened. Atwood again scored, and Hemming lost his wind and hurt his eye, and time was taken out. Stuckney never gave up, and he limped down to the basket, like a flash, and scored from near the eleven points. Janesville had a lead of eleven points at this moment. Now Appleton gradually began to even up the score and resorted to shooting alone. Every time they obtained the ball, they would shoot, the majority of the shots coming close. In the half they shot four times as much as the Bower City players. Captain Saecker scored twice in a minute, and put Appleton in the lead by two points, the score standing 32 to 30. Time was taken out for Dalton again. Dalton was playing a wonderful game despite his injuries. When he felt that he could play again play was resumed with six minutes left. It looked dubious for Janesville. The teams lined up, and Atwood received the ball on the tip-off on a signal, and from the center of the floor, shot overhanded, with a man guarding him. The ball went high and cleared the rim successfully. The goal tied the score. The excitement was tremendous. Both teams fought in the last minute, but could not score. Time was called. An agreement was reached to play five minutes overtime. On the first tip-off, Wunderlick scored. His shot was the closest one that Appleton had made during the entire game. Both Janesville guards were playing back, and are credited with everything in the guarding line. Appleton scored three more baskets after that, and Hemming scored one free throw for Janesville. The game was a hard one to lose, but a few inspiring words by Coach Curtis, after the contest, made the men feel much better. Many records have been made by the Janesville team this year, and the fact that Hemming, Dalton and Atwood were given places on the all-state selections, is another fact to look favorably on. Stewart was selected as guard on the second selection. The lineup and score of the title game follow:

WEATHER FORECAST.

Cloudy Monday and Tuesday with probable Showers Monday. Colder.

TIME AND EXPEDIENCY.

Now that the campaign on the question of license or no license has started in earnest, the election of a new commissioner is most seriously affected. Under the laws of the state it is possible for half a dozen men to create a sentiment that takes the form of a petition, for which they can already sign for the good government of the city as a whole. As stated before, the time for a no-license campaign was not opportune. The time for establishing the reasons for abolishing the saloons from the city, is too short to bring the arguments home to the voters with sufficient strength to bear fruit. To be effective a no-license campaign must be along educational lines. To really arouse the citizens to the necessity for such action some startling issue must be brought to their attention. Beyond the question of prohibition and no-license there is nothing at issue at the present time. During the past year the members of the city council have done much to regulate the local liquor conditions. A number of saloons have been driven out of existence by legal enactment. The closing hours have been definitely defined, the screens removed after eleven and on Sundays, and still further regulations are contemplated. If the state laws and city ordinances are not lived up to and enforced it is the fault of the police department which has the enforcement of these laws under their jurisdiction. It is the fault of the mayor, of the members of the fire and police commission, of the chief of police and of his subordinates. This can be remedied by public demand and it would appear to the layman that this is one and the only real reason, aside from the general question upon which the no-license element can base their campaign. The fact that they have at this time filed their petition for bringing the issue to a vote is being used as a direct reflection upon the present city administration and can not but work against the candidacy of the one member who seeks re-election. It is unfortunate that this issue has come up at this time. Men most urgent in the cause of prohibition sought to prevent it, but their efforts were useless. Men conversant with politics saw the danger of the fight at this time and urged against it, but they were overruled and the fight is on. It has put a powerful weapon in the hands of the men dissatisfied with the present city administration and they are not slow to make use of it. The city has not recovered from the internal dissension caused by the recall fight of the past year. There has been a feeling of unrest that was gradually being quieted and now this has burst into flame again. It may not be generally known, but among the instigators, men who fought the city administration at the polls last July and now sought some other weapon with which to continue their fight. The majority of the old recall crowd are satisfied with present conditions. Many agree that they can be improved, but that the present administration is doing what it can in this direction and the present administration is doing what it can in this direction and the present move has upset all their calculations and whether it wins or not it will leave the city again divided against itself. It is not sufficient argument to point out that Beloit, Edgerton, Madison, Whitewater and other nearby cities are voting on the same issues as a reason for the question being brought up here. Some other good reason aside from the general principle of prohibition must be advanced if it is to be carried to a successful issue. No-license will come in time. There is no question but that regulation at this time is far better than prohibition for Janesville, and doubtless the voters will so decide at their election, April 7th. However, it can be taken as a rebuke to the police department that the laws are not being enforced by the mere fact the question is brought up.

ENGLAND'S CRISIS.

England is facing what has been termed the greatest crisis for statesmanship in three hundred years. It has slumbered over Sunday and today the big guns of both houses of parliament are being trained upon the whole complicated affair. Passionate and high leaders of both are holding hourly conferences as how to meet the conditions. If the outcome is to be a call for a general election it will be found that the radical wing of the liberal party will form a coalition with the labor party and the cry will be the "masses against the aristocrats." It will be a new alignment and with the administration facing a cabinet crisis, with the leaders of the army refusing to reconsider their resignation, with a wholesale resignation of officers of the line suggested, Premier Asquith has one of the most serious problems that has confronted a statesman in many years. The whole question now hinges on the surrender of the famous paper held by General Gough that his troops would not be called upon to fight against Ulster. If he refuses to surrender it, it may be cancelled by the government and this will mean a wholesale resignation from the army, new elections and a general election. Meanwhile the Ulster situation remains in status quo. The troops are to remain in the Ulster provisional army is ready to resist them if need be. Cool heads have thus far prevented any and every act which might bring on genuine warfare, but it might come and the result could not be foreseen.

THE ALASKAN RAILROAD.

Leslie's Weekly talks of railroads and answers some of the arguments of Collier's by saying: "Yes! Our amiable and esteemed contemporary, Collier's, says, with much truth that 'There are a million and three-quarter railroads employees, and with all this must mean three or four million wage earners directly dependent upon the railroads, to say nothing of the farmers and shopkeepers who feed and clothe them.' Our contemporary asks if the proposed increase of freight rates affecting the railroads would not be a special tax on the whole population for a special industry? It also inquires, 'Can the country afford to pay?' Yes! The welfare of three or four million wage earners affects the entire nation. Appropriations have been made by congress to fight the boll weevil in the cotton fields of the South, to develop irrigation schemes for the benefit of the farmers of the west, and it is now proposed to expend $40,000,000 for a railroad in Alaska. All these appropriations, which are particularly advantageous to far less than three or four million wage earners, have received public approval just as the protective tariff for the development of American industries has had the support of thoughtful wage earners for years. We know that the advocates of free or freer trade, including our esteemed contemporary, have protested against the principle of protection under the delusion that the tariff increases the cost of living. This delusion is being rapidly dispelled in the light of present experience with a reduced tariff. Is the market basket any fuller or are the necessities of life cheaper? We venture to predict that if the railroads were granted the slight increase in freight rates a new impetus to our industries would be given. We also venture the prediction that the protective tariff will have far more friends at the polls in 1914 than it had in 1912. We have the high authority of President Wilson himself for the statement (in his recent message) that 'the prosperity of the railroads and the prosperity of the country are inseparably connected.' Well said!"

In making the selection for member of the city commission, the voters should weigh carefully the qualifications of the two candidates. Mr. Milmore has been in office for two years, is thoroughly acquainted with the duties of the office, and there should be no reason for his defeat unless something can be brought against him more than mere personal feeling. Mr. Goodman is a young man who has a host of friends who are enthusiastic over his candidacy. It is hoped that they will not be carried away by enthusiasm and bring into the campaign issues that should be entirely foreign to the selection of city commissioners. Let the campaign be a clean-out affair and the battle be on the merits, and if this is accomplished the result will be satisfactory to all.

Interest in the candidacy of J. T. Hooper for school commissioner at large, is increasing. Mr. Hooper is well qualified for the office, the nomination for which his friends have forced upon him, and should be elected. In the campaign in his favor there is no reflection cast upon his opponent. It is merely a question of obtaining the best material possible for the school board that is at issue, and even the most prejudiced will admit that Mr. Hooper is well qualified.

It is advised as it appears to be, it is possible that the question of license will be submitted to the voters for consideration on April 7th. Even men most enthusiastic over the proposition of prohibition feel that it is a mistake to make the fight at this time and would prefer to take the matter up of regulation rather than no license at the present time.

Even the great democratic thunderer, the New York World, now takes up cudgels against Bryan. They say that he has not taken his office seriously, that "he has clung to the honor and emoluments of office, but he has shirked its responsibility until public confidence in his capacity and judgment is dwindling to nothing." We are told by the New York Herald that the United States is without a sympathetic friend among all the strong governments of the world while facing the Mexican crisis and that this creates "an urgent situation."

It looks as though former Superintendent of Public Property Essmann is in a serious way. Perhaps when he takes the stand in his own defense he may tell a story that will not help State of Ohio, city of Toledo, Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of FRANK J. CHENEY'S Catarrh Cure.

Nature's Fashion Lesson:

Rejuvenation is a pretty long word, but not too long to embody all it means in spirit and precept. Rejuvenation means the return to youth, new life, new spirit, new dress, new endeavor, new accomplishment. Nature guides us in this thought with her glowing example of Spring.
The grass, the leaves, the flowers, the birds and animal life, each in their own language express the thought "Spring is here, put on your best bib and tucker, your gayest colors and sing your most joyous song to the happiest season in all the year." Mankind, too, catches the spirit that pervades the air with the coming of blossom's fragrance—the balmy winds laden with the fresh scents of forest, garden and field; the returning birds' songs of joy—we intuitively throw our shoulders back and our chins up to do homage to the wonderful new life.
When Nature puts on her new dress of many colors to glorify the Spring Days, so in us, too, is instinctively created a desire for new habiliments. We want to start right with the new season—right in spirit, right in mind, right in dress, for now has come the awakening of Nature, and when she opens her eyes to behold all her minions, human, animal and vegetable, we want her to see us in our best aspect.
The day of celebration is close at hand. Dress your mind with happy thoughts, your voice with joyous song, your hearts with kindly feelings, your spirit with wholesome ambitions, your body with distinctive dress.
For the Day is a glad some one. It's Nature's birthday.
It's Easter.
Your Easter apparel is ready at The Big Store.

THREE ARE CAUGHT IN RAID ON HOUSE MADE SUNDAY NIGHT

Three From Edgerton Given Heavy Terms by Judge Maxfield on Charges of Drunkenness.

Two men and one woman, all three from Edgerton, were arrested by the police on a questionable residence near the city limits on the river road late Sunday night and it was only due to a forewarned tip that "the police were coming" that saved them from being apprehended. Complaints have been received that a well known character was conducting the house for immoral purposes and Sunday night it is alleged that the occupants were having a free for all fight there.

Officers Morrissey, Kemp and Albright took the patrol wagon and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wetzel and Edward Reynolds in the roadway, too intoxicated to escape with the rest. After they were loaded into the wagon, the house was searched and although there were lights in nearly every room and signs of a "roughhouse," no one was at home.

When arraigned before Judge Maxfield this morning in the municipal court on the charges of drunkenness, the three pleaded guilty but stoutly maintained that they were out on the road going to purchase some chickens from a farmer who lived just a few miles further up the muddy highway.

When the suspicious signs of having been beaten in a fight, for his face was badly bruised, and all three told the court of several people who escaped in a rig just before the police arrived.

Mrs. Wetzel and her husband were given ten days' flat sentence, and twenty-five additional days, being unable to pay a fine amounting to twenty-six dollars. The charge of second offense drunkenness was made against Reynolds, an ex-convict, after the examination was sentenced to six months in the county jail under the commitment law. Reynolds was convicted in the Janesville court on a similar charge in September, and has, according to police consideration, been in the city in the alleged disorderly conduct, one of whom is a notorious Janesville girl with a long court record.

EXPECT MANY WOMEN WILL CAST BALLOTS

Hundreds of Janesville Women Planning to Vote on School Commissioner Next Tuesday.

At the general election on April seventh, it is expected that hundreds of Janesville women will be well represented in the polls to use their franchise in voting on the election of school commissioner at large, on the municipal ticket. Since those who have been registered and whose names are not listed on the polling books will have to have their ballots sworn in by property owners.

The ballots will be given the voters next Tuesday, one for the municipal election, which will carry the names of candidates for city council, supervisors, constables and school commissioners; the license question ballot, and the county ballot for the judicial election. On this ballot, a great number of names of candidates for justice of the supreme court, James C. Kerwin being the only candidate, and the three Janesville men, H. L. Maxfield, Edwin P. Carpenter, and Charles E. Lange, in the race for the municipal judgeship.

In the twenty townships and three villages of the county there will be two other county ballots in addition to the judicial ballot. The ballot for education for men, one ballot being for men and the other for women. Six candidates have filed nomination papers for this office. John T. Atkinson, of Jarvis, Alvah C. Austin, town of Jarvis, Charles W. Boag, town of Beloit, Solon Cooper, village of Clinton, Irving P. Hinckley, Fulton, and Charles W. McCarthy, Portage. Five of these are to be elected. Voters in the cities of Beloit, Evansville, Edgerton and Janesville, which are not included in the superintendent's district, will not vote for these candidates.

MONEY FROM STATE IS EXPECTED DAILY

Judge Stevens Has Made His Decision In Favor of Rock County on Reassessment Case.

A check from State Treasurer Johnson for an amount equal to the cost of the Janesville reassessment which was withheld by the state from money due the county last fall, is daily expected at the office of County Treasurer Livermore. Judge E. Ray Stevens of the Dane County circuit court has handed down his decision in the case, which was brought by Rock county against the state, in which he awards $2,995.29 with interest from Aug. 22, to the county. This decision was according to an agreement recently entered into by District Attorney Dunwiddie and Attorney General Owen in which Mr. Owen abandoned his opposition to the claims of the county. The money will go into the highway repair fund and will be expended this year in the repair and up-keep of state aid roads.

State to Pay Costs.

A copy of the decision was received today by District Attorney Dunwiddie. The memorandum by the court reads as follows:

It is settled by the decisions of this state that mandamus is an action within which the prevailing party is entitled to recover costs. A public officer like any other citizen, is liable to pay costs in a mandamus action.

Authority has been cited, and the court has found none, which exempts the state treasurer from this rule.

"The state has no interest in the fund here in question. Under the law this fund belongs to Rock county and is lawfully withheld by the defendant. The fact that the defendant withheld the fund on the advice of the law officer of the state, and that he in no way profited individually by withholding this fund, does not affect the right of Rock county to recover the costs which the law gives to it."

Entitled to Interest.

"Under the rule of law, ex. re. v. Warren, 55 Wis. 271, the relator is entitled to interest on the fund withheld."

According to Mr. Dunwiddie the costs will amount to $50 or $60, while the interest for seven months will be slightly more than $100.

Mr. Dunwiddie has been most diligent in his efforts to bring about a speedy settlement of this tangle which has kept from Rock county money which was badly needed in the highway repair work.

KELLY CONFIDENT OF WINNING BOUT

Boxers Tuning Up in Training for Feature Bout of Bower City Club on April 1st.

Reports from the training camp of Spike Kelly, welterweight champion, and Walter Bauman, indicate that both men will be ready for the weigh-in at 145 pounds, at three o'clock in the afternoon, and ready for a mill that should be the most thrilling of any staged in southern Wisconsin, on April first.

Kelly is making his headquarters at Superior, where the game has plenty of following and is daily going through a grind to put the winning snap and punch for Bauman and "Wildcat" Ferns, whom he is to meet at Superior, the last of April. Kelly will have no trouble in making the weight as he has been fighting steady for the past five months and in his correspondence to the Janesville promoters declared that if he could not lick the Milwaukee "hope" before the ten rounds was over, would be ready to quit the ring. Confidence is a good thing and Spike appears to have plenty of it, but he will not have an easy mark in his bout here for Bauman has no fear of his titled opponent and it is a safe bet that he will put a lot of punishment on Kelly before the final curtain falls.

Bauman is putting on his finishing touches in Milwaukee, tearing off road work and boxing daily with the numerous battlers that make the Cream City their congregating place. With a chance to jump to the front row among the welterweights by a good showing against Kelly, Bauman will put up the battle of his life and his rapid improvement since his bout here with Willie Schaefer of Chicago, should put Mr. Kelly on his mettle to stay off the wallop that Bauman is in the dangerous habit of slipping one over when least expected.

Red Oliver is seeking to warm his feet by spreading excuses in Beloit, declaring that he is a lightweight and that Hal Clark would weigh in at about 142 pounds, in his bout here. It will be interesting to note what the scales say on Wednesday when the Cream City battler steps on the platform. Clark has always boxed at 135 and 123 pounds, and has been a star preliminary fighter in the Milwaukee mills.

Young Nickols, the Janesville boy who is to meet Bobby Ward, the clever Beloit bearcat, has been putting in the last week inspecting the scenery and roads north of Janesville and it is his first fight, expects to make a creditable showing in the six-round preliminary.

Up to date there has been a larger advance sale for seats than at the first exhibition of the Bower City club and a record crowd is expected, despite the fact that a wrestling match has been staged at Beloit on the same night.

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville, March 28.—Mrs. Bert Cox of Beloit is in the village the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Grenawalt.

SCHWARTZ FUNERAL HELD ON THURSDAY

Christian Schwartz, Aged Seventy Three Years, Dies After Attack of Pneumonia.

[SPECIAL TO THIS GAZETTE.]

Sharon, March 28.—At his home in this village on Monday, March 23, at 12:30 p. m., occurred the death of Christian Schwartz, aged 73 years, 5 months and 23 days. Death resulted from pneumonia after an illness of about two weeks. Deceased was born in Webenheim, Rheinisch, Bavaria, Germany, September 27, 1840. In November, 1862 he was married to Suzanna Miller and to them were born five children, two dying in infancy. Mr. Schwartz, with his wife and three children, came to America and purchased a farm at Sharon Corners. There he resided until fifteen years ago, when he and his wife moved to Sharon to spend the evening of his life together. He is survived by a wife, two sons and a daughter: Christian, Jr., of Sharon Corners; Fred of Chicago, and Sophia of Sharon Corners; twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, besides a host of friends.

The funeral was held Thursday at 12 o'clock at the late home and one o'clock at the German Lutheran church, of which he was a strict member. Rev. H. A. Steege of Milwaukee spoke sympathizing words in German and Rev. Theo. Bergen of Sharon in English. Burial took place in Oakwood cemetery.

Every year I live I am more convinced that the waste of life lies in the love we have not given, the power we have not used, the kindness we have not shown, the happiness we have not enjoyed, the good we have not done. No one ever yet was the poorer in the long run for having once in a lifetime let out all the length of the reins.—Matthew Arnold.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND

VINOL FOR RUN-DOWN PEOPLE.

If any one person should know the value of medicines it is the druggist who dispenses them and from our experience we want to say if people in this vicinity only knew the value of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil) at this season of the year, we would not be able to supply the demand.

This is because Vinol is a combination of the two most world famed tonics, namely, the medicinal curative elements of cods' liver without the oil, and iron for the blood.

Vinol tones up the digestive organs, purifies and enriches the blood, promotes healthful sleep and a normal appetite.

Old people, delicate children, run-down, overworked and tired women, should try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

Smith Drug Co., Druggists, Janesville, Wis.

P. S.—For pimples and blotches try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

BRANCH OFFICE FOR GAZETTE AT BAKER & SON.

For the convenience of its patrons and the public generally, the Gazette has established a branch office with J. P. Baker & Son, Drug Store, corner West Milwaukee and Franklin streets. Copy for classified advertisements, orders for papers, subscriptions and matters of this nature, as well as items of news may be left at the Baker Drug Store, and will receive the same prompt attention as if they were sent direct to the office.

THE JOB SEEKS YOU IF YOU ARE TRAINED

Men without business training all look alike to the employer—a small want ad in any daily paper will bring an army of undesirable help—undesirable because untrained.

The MAN WHO KNOWS is more in demand today than ever before. He stands head and shoulders above the crowd. He is singled out for the better position. He earns more money because he is worth more. The big positions of today are all held by those who prepared themselves yesterday.

YOU, young men and young women, who are thinking of entering the business world tomorrow must learn today—it's your only salvation. You must be prepared. If you're not, you'll be lost in the crowd—you'll be numbered among those who are "just making a living"—you'll be passed in the race for success by those who were willing to spend a little more time and money necessary in learning about business before they went into it.

The logical place to study business is the Business School. Our sole purpose is to so train young men and women that when they graduate from this institution they will be equipped for the BEST positions—will be singled out by the men who do big things as "the ones for the place because they have the training."

The Janesville Business College

Women Worth While.

MADAME NAON.

By Selene Armstrong Harmon.

"I shall be eighty years old next birthday, my dear," said a venerable woman to a younger one as the two sat at afternoon tea in a Washington drawing room recently, "and I have just returned from a trip to South America. Old as I am, I would not have felt my earthly journeyings were completed until I had seen that wonderful country."

Her interest in and enthusiasm for the peoples and civilizations of Latin America represent the attitude of the average intelligent citizen of our own country. With the construction of the Panama canal, a wonderful vista has opened to the south of us upon which the interest and attention of all North America, indeed all of the civilized world, are focused.

In view of this fact, as well as by virtue of a personality of unusual magnetism, one of the most interesting figures in the diplomatic set at Washington is that of Madame Naon, wife of the minister from the Argentine republic. Madame Naon is considered one of the most beautiful women in society at the capital. She has the lustrous dark hair, the dark, appealing eyes and the clear olive skin of the perfect Spanish type. Though she has been the mother of six children, she retains to a remarkable degree the fresh, delicate complexion and the bright eyes of a young girl.

The Minister and Madame Naon have five children living, all of whom were born in Argentina. Their names are Isabe, Edisha, Romoula, Johan, Joseph and Charlotte, the last ter a dark-eyed, black-haired toddler of three. Like the five children of the Viscount and Viscountess d'Azay, the children of the Minister from Persia and Madame Khan, and others in the diplomatic corps, the little Naons have adopted themselves perfectly to life in Washington. They speak English fluently, attend private schools and have numerous friends and playmates among the future belles and beaux of the capital.

Of all the foreign residences at Washington, none is more beautiful, or more worthy to represent a great government, than is the new Argentine legation over which Madame Naon presides as hostess. With her husband's promotion to the rank of ambassador in the near future, this will be known as an embassy. It is located near Dupont circle in the heart of the city's best residence section, and is a magnificent dwelling. Its great drawing room, reception rooms, library and dining room are adapted to entertaining on a generous scale, and it is understood that a ballroom will be added later. The house is furnished to the last detail with faultless taste. At its rear are business offices for the minister and his staff, and also buildings for use as stables, garage and servants' quarters. The whole forming what is the most up-to-date and perfectly equipped foreign residence at Washington.

Daily Thought.

There never was a good war or a bad peace.—Franklin.

EAT NEW BREAD, CABBAGE, SAUSAGE, FISH,
"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" WILL DIGEST IT ALL

Eat Without fear of indigestion or a sour, gassy stomach, Heartburn or Dyspepsia.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, get this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered, you get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear. Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. Diapepsin is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Put an end to stomach trouble by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

The Practical Side of the Commissioner's Job

What do you think are necessary qualifications for the position of Commissioner in reference to the streets?

PETER J. GOODMAN, Candidate.

Understanding the different materials is a qualification that means a saving of money to the purchasing department of the city.

As owner of teams and employer of labor under the past street commissioners for a number of years, leaves me in a position to thoroughly understand the managing of the street department.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Janesville, Wis., March 30, 1914.

Editor Gazette.

Last Saturday's Gazette very kindly offered to open its columns to a fair discussion of the issues in the coming campaign.

For once then, let us have a clear, fair, educational discussion of the issues until election day and then set the record straight.

Last Sunday afternoon the members of the brotherhoods of the various churches met at the Y. M. C. A. and after a free discussion as to the advisability of submitting at the coming election the question of license or no license of saloons in Janesville, decided by an overwhelming vote to submit the same.

The necessary number of signatures and more for filing were easily secured and filed and the question is now up to the voters.

No question as to the sincerity of the men can be raised nor of their motives in this action. They are not seeking office nor even pay for what they are doing. In fact, they believe money are free for what they believe to be the best interests for all concerned and for the city. They look with regret at our police and court records of the almost daily account of drunken men sentenced by Judge Max, field and hold the selling of liquor and the men who sanction it directly responsible for such conditions.

They hope and trust that all serious thinking men will consider the question in its true light, and invite them to join in the movement on election day. All over the country this question is before the people. Madison, Stoughton, Edgerton and Beloit, and in Illinois Rockford, Freeport, Elgin, Aurora and others vote on the same question. Why Janesville?

Chiropractic Will Surely Help You

Don't Continue to be Sick and Ailing When Relief is At Hand and Held Out to You. Take Advantage of the Chiropractor's Knowledge and Ability.

You can't expect to get well if you don't do something for yourself. You must overcome the cause of your sickness if you would become well. That's the mission of the Chiropractor, "Destroying the cause of disease," and I do it by removing the cause, which is subluxation of the spinal vertebrae.

Here are some illustrations and instances of what I've done for sufferers. They are but few. In the several years I've been in Janesville I've helped hundreds of cases and can help you.

NUMBNESS OF THE ARMS AND SCIATICA

Vertebra (A), pressing on the nerves which lead to the arm, forearm and hand is the cause of that tingling and burning sensation in the upper extremities. Way continue to endure it. You can be made well.

Sciatica is easily remedied by placing vertebra (B) in its normal or natural position, allowing the nerve impulse to pass uninterrupted through the sciatic nerve.

Copyrighted. I have effected a complete restoration in such cases. Your case is no different.

PARALYSIS. Are you paralyzed? Have you been told there is no cure for you? Yes! Vertebra (B) pressing on the spinal cord or the nerves of the lower extremities will cause paralysis. Rubbing, electricity or serums will not correct the condition. Chiropractic is the only rational method. I can give you any amount of proof that chiropractic will make you well. Examination free.

line. If you are so afflicted call on me at once.

Procrastination is the thief of time.

STOMACH TROUBLE.

Chiropractic adjustments easily overcome the dangers of stomach trouble. When your stomach is out of order caused by some vertebral disarrangement you cannot do your work as you should. I have adjusted many people for stomach trouble. The subluxated vertebra at (C) in the illustration shows the cause of stomach ills. When this misaligned vertebra is adjusted back in place your body is again

OCCIPITAL HEADACHES AND GOITRE.

Many cases of headache are made well permanently by correcting the position of vertebra (A), relieving the spinal cord pressure. Have you been complaining of a dull ache at the base of the brain? Do you want to get well? Hundreds of these cases have taken chiropractic adjustments from me and are well.

Copyrighted. GOITRE. Vertebra (B) shows the cause of goitre. Citing a recent case a young lady having a goitre for six years is entirely well after eighteen adjustments.

MILLIONS OF BALKAN WAR BULLETS RECLAIMED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Paris, March 30.—Millions of bullets fired during the Balkan war have just arrived at Marseilles and are to be manufactured into bottle tops and lead pipes. The bullets, picked up on battle fields, were in 2,085 sacks of 100 pounds each and were sold to dealers in scrap metals. Something like seventy tons of cartridge shells arrived with the bullets.

SECTION OF PAVEMENT CAVES IN LAST NIGHT; COMPANIES ARE LIABLE

Dangerous cave-ins on the paved streets has caused the street department and only prompt work by the police department and street employees has prevented a serious accident. Last night a section, over eight feet in circumference, and four feet deep, caved in at the top of the Milwaukee street hall where there is a sewer man-hole.

The pit was only two or three feet from the car line and far enough from the corner so that drivers would be unable to see the cave-in in time to dodge it. A lantern was placed over it by the police. Last week, on North Main street, a section of pavement, nearly twenty feet long, and the width not as dangerous as the Milwaukee street hole, being on the side of the street. At other places smaller spots have caved in.

These have been caused by employees of companies who have dug ditches in the past winter for gas and water connections, and in filling the trenches neglected to pack or flush the frozen earth when re-filling. Due to the recent rains, the frost has been taken out of the ground, resulting in the earth sinking and the paving caving in. The city will hold the companies liable for the neglect.

Whether the new pose of the figure, so universally adopted by the woman of fashion—easy, drooping, swaying—is responsible for the vagaries of the present modes, or whether recent styles have permitted, then demanded this picturesque carriage it is difficult to say. But it has served to provide the motif of Spring and Summer styles, which are designed first of all to emphasize the natural lines of the figure.

GOWNS FOR SPRING ARE LIMP AND LOVELY

To suggest the crinolines of a by-gone time with all their fluff and demure charm and at the same time retain the clinging modes so highly favored was the task set themselves by intrepid designers. How well they have succeeded is demonstrated by their charming creations for Spring and Summer.

Adopting only the softest fabrics they have been able to swirl flounces—three-tiers of them, sometimes—and tunics and ruffles about the hips and still preserve the slim and graceful silhouette.

On the silk frocks especially, one sees rows of scant flounces at the lower edge of a tunic or springing from a draped hip grille.

The tunic in various forms is prominent, on foundations that continue narrow at the bottom. When drapery is used it is brought to the back in such a way as to suggest the old bustle backs.

Peg-top styles remain in good taste for the simpler frocks, while modified minaret models do not lack favor.

The bodices of these new costumes show no very radical innovations. Kimono or raglan sleeves hold full sway. Vest and surplice effects are shown in novel variations, always with the low neck, and usually having three-quarter sleeves. The bolero is also adopted as well as the simple peasant draped waist.

The Medici collar, so pretty and becoming when carefully made, is a feature of many of the more elaborate costumes. The V shaped necks predominate, and quite a few flat, fancy collars with sheer vests of net or lace are used. The preference is for collars of chiffon or batiste very delicately hand-embroidered.

The combination of contrasting materials is effectively worked out in many of the informal frocks. A serge model for example may have a panther and strap effect on the waist, of taffeta. Georgette crepe, a leading fabric of the season, is most attractively combined with silk nets and tulle.

In the wash frocks this thought is strikingly developed by the use of plaids and the checked fabrics which have appeared in great variety in the cotton goods. Especially chic was a model designed for street wear having a tunic of checked crepe over an undershirt of white tulle.

Silks of various weaves, so long as they are supple, hold first place in the season's list of fabrics. Messaline, charmeuse, crepe meteor, indeed satin-faced silks of all descriptions are in high favor because of their particular adaptability to the draped and clinging modes of today. Chiffon tulle has been employed in the making of so many of the most attractive Spring costumes that great popularity is predicted for it. Printed silks, the patronus of many suggested by Chinese and Japanese embroideries, are expected likewise to score a success.

Crepe de chine continues on the crest of popularity, both in the plain fabric and ornamented with Jacquard figures, Canton crepes and a new variety, Tussock, which lends itself readily to the production of a rippling surface are extensively used.

It is preeminently a season of crepes in wash goods also, with velvets and satins, the latter in many new weaves, exceptionally strong.

The vogue for plaids and printed effects extends to the wash fabrics as well and some delightful novelties have been brought out that permit clever usage in combination with plain materials. The vogue for blouses that contrast with rather than match the suit has brought out great numbers of white, cream and flesh colored effects, as well as striking models in high colors, which will tend to lighten up the somewhat quiet colors favored in suits. Bobinet, shadow laces, hand embroidered voiles and crepes are to be found in great variety. The popular Georgette crepe, crepe de chine and tulle may be made up into chic creations in any of the modish shades of bamboo, tomato red, canary, madarin, coral, bronze and peach.

The Medici collar and V opening distinguish the majority of the models which are equally divided, however, as to sleeve length, some showing the full length, others the short three-quarter length. In effect the new waists are rather plain, depending for trimming upon ingenious combinations of materials. Tunic waists showing the cutaway and pleated extension below the waist are in good style when worn with the plainer types of skirts. This outside finish on the silk waists, achieved by girlish and sashes often supplemented with cordials or perhaps has been well received by the woman of fashion. Worn with a carefully selected separate skirt these blouses may carry out the effect of a whole costume. The pointed, round or square scallops, and

We Take Pleasure In Sending You This Invitation To The Annual Portrayal Of The Season's Newest Fashions.

This portrayal will be worthy of the prestige of this store gained through the past years and built on a close study and knowledge of the development of fashions both abroad and in New York.

It is this policy of specializing in tracing fashion development from the Paris sources through to the final correct style interpretations by certain New York houses, that makes these annual fashion festivals much more than a display in new merchandise.

In reality this FESTIVAL OF SPRING FASHIONS might be likened to a textbook of strictly correct information and guidance on new styles, for the whole magnificent gathering is the original selections of a fashion expert.

Paris seems to be in one of those periods which produce inexhaustible new ideas—each more charming and beautiful than its predecessors—and the story to be unfolded during the FESTIVAL OF SPRING FASHIONS is more interesting even than those of the past years.

THE FESTIVAL OF SPRING FASHIONS
 COMMENCES ON Wednesday April First and continues the three following days.

MILLINERY For the EARLY SPRING

The long and eccentric feathers of the winter's vogue have been modified—the extravagant bows have been reined and the small head-sizes considerably enlarged—these are the changes one notices first in the millinery offerings for Spring.

A note of moderation is struck in size, shape and trimming that is a natural consequence of the extreme styles of the past season. While the hats are not large, they are of a size that is bound to prove more generally becoming than the very small ones in recent favor.

A great variety of shapes is shown, with a preference perhaps for the rolling or upturned brims. Adaptations of the sailor are very smart, especially those having a slight dip at the front and back. Especially new is the shape of some of the crowns—septangular. This idea is also carried out on a few of the wider brims.

The tricorne has lost nothing of its jaunty charm in the attractive variations it has developed. Besides the regularly upturned tricorne, which are still in evidence, and so smart on certain types, there is a shape which turns up sharply across the back and into a shallow point in front, the width being considerably greater from side to side than from back to front.

The mushroom styles are good, and lend themselves well to the vogue for silk covered crowns. One demure model, small and of the softest Milan, had the crown covered with accordion plaited mesh in fawn and blue. The sole trimming was a small cockade of blue feathers set at a surprising angle, toward the face, that gave the hat just the bit of dash required to offset the droop of the mushroom brim.

Upturned brims that widen and flare toward the back are numerous, with either ribbon or feather trimming. A charming, airy grace was imparted to the clever shape of this description by the pointing of two pairs of small canary-colored wings, one at the edge of the brim at its greatest height, the other toward the front of the brim on the low side. While the eccentric—often ridiculous—placing of feather ornaments that prevailed during the winter has been brought within reasonable bounds perhaps just in time to avoid legislation against them, one notices still certain regislar tendencies among designers.

Here is a simple enough flat shape, with the brim slightly rolled to the side, the entire top covered with a soft, figured crepe in quiet colors, and perched perilously on the very edge of the brim a feather stick-up, small to be sure, but wired to an unexpected angle. And there is a perfectly round sailor shape, the crown covered with blue changeable silk with four small, rounded double wings of green and black placed about it at right angles and equidistant.

For the most part, however, the Spring offerings are simple in line and trimming. Colors tend to the darker shades, although a fuchsia shade and a brilliant electric blue may be numbered among the favorites. Purple, gendarme blue, fawn and mocha as well as the enduring taupe shades are prominent in both braids and trimmings.

Except in the extremely tailored models, the softer braids predominate. Milan, supple and adaptable, is much used. Hemp and leghorn, and a new braided called Algo—in reality the revival of a braid that was popular several years ago—form many of the smartest hats. A few Panamas appear, chic indications of mid-summer's trend. Knitted scarfs constitute the sole trimming of many of these. Quills are seen on several of the stiff-brimmed models, while the delicate Numidie and Gaura continue to hold their own in spite of a long season of popularity. Ostrich fantasies, always graceful and becoming, trim many of the dressier models.

Silk crepe, in both Dresden and Oriental designs, covering the crown and entire upper brim promises to be a marked characteristic of Spring modes. Printed ratine, in the lighter weights, is also used in this way.

A novel touch on a small hat of black Algo braid was a scarlet poppy, in banded passamenterie, so cleverly applied to the upturned brim at the side front as to look as if it were beaded directly onto the braid. Two single ostrich feathers were placed at the back of this Frenchy model.

A beautiful shade of rose satin was used to form the crown of a black hemp, straight brim hat of good lines. A narrow piping of the satin was carried around the upper brim, about an inch back from the edge, and a Numidie, caught half way to the tip with a narrow band of satin, was placed directly in the front.

This piping with a bright colored silk is employed to good advantage on many of the somber-hued models. Orange combined with taupe, green with black, fuchsia with midnight blue are most effective.

Moire ribbon, which seems eminently more suited to Spring than Winter millinery continues in high favor. One of the exclusive shops features a bonnet shaped creation, the crown completely swathed with moire ribbon in the exquisite fuchsia shade, and having a bow of moderate dimensions up standing at the back.

Flowers are little used as yet. Occasionally one sees a little bunch of French blossoms tucked close on the upper brim to carry out a color note; but aside from that feathers and ribbons hold full sway.

A WORD ABOUT VEILINGS

Veilings will not abate a jot in popularity for Spring. Many of the novelties that appeared late in the season will be carried over, but developed in the lighter and more open meshes.

Shadow lace effects, too becoming to be soon forsaken, show new designs more filmy and fascinating than ever before. Beauty spot designs show the butterfly, the dragon, the sunburst, the large velvet dot and any number of odd floral designs. Plain mesh veils, particularly the hexagon meshes, are well liked, and in the bordered French veils will be found many novel designs.

Fashions Fads in Jewelry and Vanities

Oriental tendencies, so conspicuous in the apparel modes of the past season and showing no signs of diminishing favor, are responsible for many attractive novelties in jewelry.

Necklaces especially show this influence, and though some of them may be bought as low as $10.00, they look as though they might once have been worn by some dark-skinned Eastern princess. Antique designs have been copied faithfully, and some beautiful effects obtained with imitation stones.

Combinations of jade and white coral, mounted on dull silver, or jade and moonstones, imitation aqua—made rings with an antique setting; rose finished gold La Vallieres with ornaments of engraved crystal and pearls, and any number of other artistic necklaces may be found that range in price from $5.00 to $50.00.

Among the newest offerings in fancy colored bead necklaces, of which there is a bewildering array, are those having a silk tassel ornament that hangs from a cluster of the beads in the front. The necklaces are formed of various combinations of beads—jade, white, with jet, crystal with amber—with the tassel matching one or the other of the colorings.

Enamel lockets, in delicate shades, with chains to match will add a dainty touch of color to the white lingerie dress or blouse.

In particular keeping with the quaint fads effects so much worn this season are the old-fashioned onyx lockets set with tiny pearls and suspended from heavy onyx chains. Indeed, the woman who is the fortunate possessor of a few pieces of old jewelry would do well to have them remodeled and reset, as the vogue for these lovely old things is apt to be long lived.

WHEN BUYING GLOVES FOR SPRING

The vogue of the long sleeve is assured for Spring and Summer wear. From the viewpoint of attractiveness every woman will welcome the news because the hand and arm are never so attractively dressed as when soft wrinkles above the wrist make the hand appear smaller and more shapely. For the woman of limited purse, however, it is not an unmixed blessing. Lengths will run from eight button to sixteen, with not a few twenty button lengths for formal wear. Champagne shades will vie with blacks and whites for favor. Heavy black stitching on the whites and champagnes are very smart.

Silk gloves, particularly with contrasting stitching, will be much worn, while camo and doeklin, for shopping and outing wear are both stylish and practical. A hint from a glove manufacturer about the washing of leather gloves, such as camo and doeklin, will be appreciated by the woman who has had her gloves stiffen up after few washings. It is very simple; add a teaspoonful of sweet or olive oil to the first water and to the soapy rinsing water. It is absorbed by the leather and tends to keep the gloves soft and pliant, adding greatly to their wearing qualities.

TRANSPARENCY AND A CERTAIN CHARMING PICTURE-QUALITY IS DEMANDED OF THE NEWEST NECKWEAR. The universal acceptance of the low, soft, surplice bodice which has received added impetus with the approach of warmer days, makes a delightful necessity of many and varied neck accessories.

one of the best known and most popular women on the American stage says "I am delighted with your Bouquet Jeanice, both the extract and toilet water, as it is so sweet and delicate."

Bouquet Jeanice Extract, $1.00 an ounce.
Bouquet Jeanice Toilet Water $1.25 and $1.75.
Bouquet Jeanice Complexion Powder, 75c.
Bouquet Jeanice Sachet, 75c an ounce.
Bouquet Jeanice Soap, 35c a cake.

P. A. B. WIDENER PAID $700,000 FOR THIS

"Small Cowper Madonna."

The "Small Cowper Madonna," bought the other day by P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia for $700,000, is the most expensive painting ever brought to America. The painting, which is but 24 by 17 inches, was bought by Duveen Brothers of New York last fall in London for $500,000. Art experts consider it one of Raphael's finest works.

Miss Lucy Price.

Miss Lucy Price of Cleveland, Ohio, is one of the leading figures in the fight women are making against equal suffrage. She took a prominent part in the suffrage campaign in Ohio in 1912. The suffragists were beaten by 85,000 votes. Later she went East and made many speeches there. She is secretary of the Ohio Anti-Suffrage association.

Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane.

Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane of Kalamazoo, the "Municipal House-keeper" of the United States, recently returned to her home from Uniontown, Pa., where she went to make a sanitary investigation of the city at her price, $100 per day and expenses. Mrs. Crane is a very busy woman. In addition to her municipal housekeeping, she has been called to Minnesota and Tennessee by the governors of those states to make sanitary surveys.

DIAPHANOUS BEST DESCRIBES THE LATEST LINGERIE

Undergarments aren't undergarments any more; they are mere cowbells of lace held together by bits of ribbon. Chiffon, that most perishable of all fabrics, forms many of the more elaborate garments, while net is extensively used for every article of lingerie, and in the less expensive grades as well.

Combinations and Princess slips are often entirely of net or point d'esprit and trimmed with lace about the neck and bottom. Crepe de chine, so well adapted to the present clinging modes, has been utilized in many styles.

The novel dancing trousers have been developed in the greatest variety of materials. These garments are fashioned like scant Turkish trousers drawn into a ribbon or elastic at the waist and ankles. Frills of lace fall about the ankles, caught here and there with a tiny ribbon or chiffon flower.

The garter trouser is also a direct result of the season's immense vogue for dancing. From round elastic, ribbon covered and trimmed, full ruffles that may be of chiffon, crepe de chine, shadow lace, or nainsook with deep inserts of lace. These provide the charming front about the feet so necessary with the close, transparent skirts in vogue, yet add no bulk to the upper figure.

Many new styles have appeared recently, designed especially for the corsetless figure. A dainty exception to the rule of lace-decked garments is a combination of batiste consisting of the new Tango closed drawers and a sort of scant chemise that slips on over the head and has a wide belt that runs through slides and is placed high to support the bust. Featherstitching in delicate colors forms the only trimming of this unique garment.

These are made up also in crepe de chine, China silk and the sheerest nainsook, trimmed very simply with narrow insertion.

The suspender drawers are another novelty that will be appreciated by the woman who has discarded corsets. They are made with a high waistline to which on either side are attached straps that are carried over the shoulder, closely simulating suspenders, even to the little buckle by which they may be adjusted to the proper length.

Even the most practical of garments nowadays have decided claims to beauty. Night gowns of cotton crepe or soft dannel have daintily embroidered collar and cuffs, and the many warm gowns designed for sleeping-out-of-doors may be found in pretty colors and attractive styles.

FOR HER HOURS OF EASE
A Few Notes on Negligees

The negligee is fast becoming as much a part of a woman's wardrobe as her evening gown or tailor made. It may be an elaborate affair of chiffon and lace or a simple kimono, picturesque in coloring and cut, but she has found that it is no longer a luxury but a necessity for certain hours of the day.

As in all other apparel for Spring, crepes will predominate in negligees and dressing gowns. Batistes and figured lawn, trimmed with shadow lace have also appeared in most attractive models. Japanese silks, often having plain borders that are cleverly used as trimming features, are especially desirable for traveling.

While the Empire effects retain their strong hold on feminine fancy, models that are draped in the prevailing long, straight lines are extensively shown.

Net frills trim many of the charming matinees. Accordion pleated crepe formed one of these which was edged with shirred ribbon and had wide net ruffles in the sleeves and about the low cut neck.

CORRECT MODES IN CORSETS.

It is impossible to deny that the new pose of the figure, so generally adopted, is graceful and charming, but it must be supple and elastic not limp or dejected, and to assume it naturally the correct corset is imperative.

The newest models feature the extremely low bust and free hips. Although a few have small gussets set in below the waist line in front permitting the figure to take the slightly outward curve now considered perfectly natural, the majority show a tendency to return to the flat straight line.

Many of these models can scarcely be called corsets at all in the sense of enclosing the upper figure—rather are they more aptly called hip-chesters. They are laced to give flat back lines and the straight hip lines, supporting the waist only so far as is essential to give perfect pose to the upper figure.

This conforming of the natural upper lines of the form to the hipless effects gives an easy, graceful carriage to full figures and to medium and slender figures, that freedom and suppleness that make for the youthful uncorseted effect so much in vogue in the present modes.

Materials used are the softest that it is possible to employ and still retain the shape and resist the strain.

The extremely low bust of the new corsets has brought out in greater variety than ever before braiders of many fabrics. Cotton tricot of fine quality, in white or in flesh color, forms one of the newest models, which is quite bonedless and so cut it gives contour to the bust and at the same time attains the natural figure effect so much desired.

The panel-front brassiere has been especially designed to take care of the blouse effect of the transparent waist. It has a soft, loose front panel of fine lace and embroidery that falls over the regulation brassiere which fits snugly and holds the bust in restriction.

Seen in a Shop for Children

Suits for girls from ten to sixteen years show all the newest style features of the present season, which have had to be modified very little to suit the youthful figure.

Fancy gowns prevail in the jackets, with the Eton effects particularly favored. Some of these little coats are cut quite long in the back, giving the sunny cut-away skirt so well liked.

Fancy collars of silk or of the same material are seen on many of the suits. Not a few pompadour crepe linings are used.

The skirts mirror all the favored modes in women's skirts. There are cunning pleated affairs, trim arrangements and even suggestions of the minaret styles.

Catharine has been used extensively in making up these models, with serge holding its own—nothing is more practical for daily wear—and plaid materials utilized in many jaunty styles. High colors are preferred, especially for the little tots of six and seven. Red and rose and the new tango shade have freely used, in both suits and dresses.

The wash dresses are delightful this season in their soft simplicity. The dressier models are of sheer white organdy, delicately embroidered, while voile, sponge, ratine and plaid glances form the every-day little frocks. One of these adorable organdies, white, scattered over with tiny sprigs of flowers—was held in at the shoulders and high waist line by a Victorian ribbon of white mull that gave it the quaint old-time look. The ends of the fabric were caught up onto the waist with bunches of small pink satin roses. From one of these bunches hung a little bag of the same material as the frock, in which to carry the tiny tot's handkerchief.

Flounced skirts are seen on many of the wash frocks, as well as odd little peplum effects and the peg-top cut. The waist line is kept normal for the most part, only occasionally being lengthened to the hips.

Illustrating a smart use of the vest effect, which shares honors with variations of the bolero in favored waist designs, was a plaid dress in soft, dull shades of blue. The long square vest, reaching midway to the low belt was of white linen, finely tucked, with a row of white linen button down each side. Collars and cuffs were of white linen, very simply embroidered.

Dresses in shoulder strap style with lingerie blouses will be much worn a little later on, particularly in the plaids and checked materials. Dotted challis, accordion pleated and hanging from shallow yokes, are attractive and practical little dresses to have for the cool days that will come now and then. A serge dress of this order also, was buttoned straight up and down the front with large satin buttons and bound button holes. A high waistline was indicated, but not held in by a heavy smocking done in silk to match the fabrics. Detachable muslin ruffles at the neck and elbows added a touch of grown-up modishness.

Another frock that is sure to delight the small wearer herself because of the two big pockets that are slipped into the front width of the skirt at the hip level, is of dark blue linen. It has kimono sleeves and is hung from the shoulders by pleats set into a shallow yoke. The neck is finished with a broad Byron collar and a shingle of heavy cord hangs from under the collar in front, outlining also the two pockets of the quaint little dress.

Smart Footwear for Spring

However dashing her Spring costume may be, her footwear is destined to assume the demure charm of Puritan days gone by. For "Colonials" is the dictum of the shoemakers.

Patent leather will form the majority of these—indeed, it will dominate all the Spring boots and slippers—and they will have for the most part turned soles and Cuban Louis heels. Buckles are either oval or square, in leather like the slipper or in metal. A new style dancing pump in the Colonial effect is of mat kid with gunmetal buckle and a low covered wood heel. What is called the leather "spool heel" is seen on many of the Colonials that have the waited sole.

For afternoon wear they show many novel combinations of leathers, such as grey with white kid, finished with a kid covered buckle. Strap slippers are being revived, a natural consequence of the vogue of the ribbon-laced sandal. A smart pair of patent leather slippers noticed recently had quarters and straps of grey checked matisse and were trimmed with small cut steel buttons. The tango pumps with their pretty ankle lacing continue in favor for evening and house wear.

The high, buttoned boot will be much worn this Spring. Patent leather vamps, with tops of cloth, kid or suede, and French or Spanish heels predominate. Spat effects in colors to match the costume will be affected by the chic follower of fashion. An exclusive bootshop is showing a boot with an extra high cut grey matisse top, patent leather vamp, and two-inch Louis heel, that should have many admirers.

Tan leathers, except in the darker shades, are not in such high favor as in the past seasons. Bronze, however, has been utilized to a considerable extent in both high and low shoes.

With the first breath of summer it is predicted that white shoes will claim feminine allegiance as widely as ever before. Canvas and buckskin are preferred for commoner wear, with kid, for both high and low shoes, in the dressy styles.

NOVELTIES IN HOSIERY

Colors are coming into their own again in the newest hosiery. The preference is for shades to match the costume.

In white, black, blue or gray may be found fine English silk stockings with plain tops and Derby ribs below the knee.

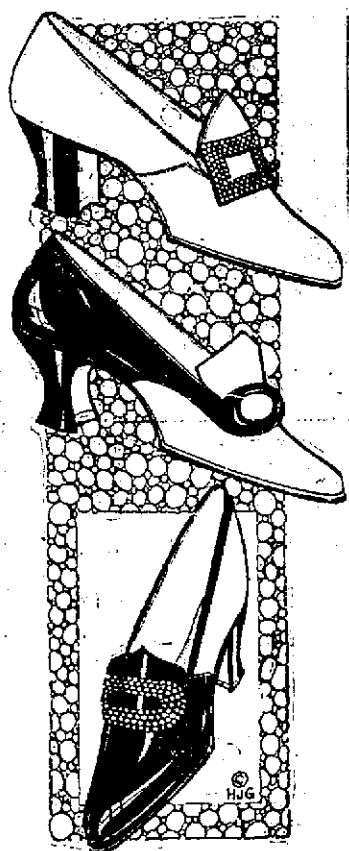

The spider pattern, hand-embroidered in any color on a pure thread silk stocking may be bought for $2.00.

The latest Parisian novelty shows two colors combined, the lighter forming a sort of panel effect down the front, that is, sometimes in the shape of two V's, whose points meet just above the instep.

Another attractive style has the foot of black, shading up into a flesh tint. A white silk cord laces up the side and ties in a tiny bow with tasseled ends.

The embroidered anklet forms the sole decoration of fine silk hosiery in practically every shade.

Open work and drop-stitch cloths are seen on many of the late designs. White silk stockings, having the cloths outlined with black chain stitch are popular.

REHBERG'S NEW SPRING BOOTS FOR WOMEN

All the new models on which Dame Fashion has placed her stamp of approval are here in all leathers; patent, gun metal, suede; etc. Spanish heel boots and pumps are proving most popular in this section. We have them in all leathers, in the different prices, and remember that your footwear is fitted by competent, painstaking and courteous salesmen.

WOMEN'S SHOES:

New Ways TO DRESS THE HAIR

Although originality remains the secret of the successful coiffure new tendencies are noticeable that promise radical and delightful changes.

By degrees the hair is being brought higher and higher on the head, particularly for evening wear; ears are once more permitted to peep forth, after long banishment, and the contour of the head is preserved by the close, soft arrangement of the hair that predominates.

The newest coiffure being worn in Paris has the hair evenly waved in a large loose wave and then drawn smoothly back from the temples without the least tendency to a pompadour. The hair is drawn straight back from the forehead also, sloping up to the back of the head, where it is coiled, quite high, in an invisible chignon, leaving the nape of the neck uncovered. Soft little ringlets fringe the temples and there is a flat curl in front of the ears, the lobes of which are exposed.

Very bewitching and quaint is this coiffure when three little curls, like one seen in old daguerotypes, are permitted to fall in front of the ears. A carved comb, thrust in at a daring angle, adds an effective touch.

Curle are coming into high favor, some of the coiffures having the back hair entirely converted into soft, loose ringlets that are simply pinned in a knot at the crown of the head. This style is especially becoming to young girls when a simple fillet is worn about the head.

Those who have found the casque style of hairdressing suited to them may wear their hair thus arranged with the assurance that it continues to be modish. Tortoise shell pins for day time wear—the jeweled ones that come in such variety for the evening coiffure—may be used to hold in place the strands that swathe the head.

With the low style of hair dressing, which will by no means be forsaken by the woman to whom it is particularly becoming, the "Barnside" arrangement of the hair brought well over onto the cheek continues popular. One may buy by the pair specially made and beautifully waved "Burnsides" to carry out this effect. Indeed the variety of forms in which hair is made up nowadays makes possible the conversion of the most unmanageable head into a charming coiffure. There are separate curls, of all lengths, from the saucy "beau catcher," pinned to fall upon the forehead, to the long Colonial curl worn so as to rest upon the shoulder; there are thick braids with both ends finished by curls, and there are coils and frames and fringes galore.

Somewhat novel is the coiffure which makes the natural parting of the hair slant from just over the left eye to the right side of the crown. The hair is brought low over the brow and the back hair is drawn up to the crown into a Psyche knot.

The head-dresses that have been so popular during the winter season are assuming daintier characteristics. Tulle, flowers and aigrettes will be seen in many novel conceits for wear with evening gowns. Tortoise combs, pins and bars are always in good taste for day time wear.

Some New Thoughts on MODERN HOME CRAFT

By ADRIEN MUNDL

At this season of the year the furnishings for the all-year-round house, or summer bungalow form an extremely fascinating subject.

Though there may be constant discussion between the house owner and the apartment dweller of the comparative advantages of the different manners of living, it seems that once again people are yearning for their own homes and a bit of garden to care for and enjoy. Architects have responded to the call for small houses so that these small places have been perfected with all the new comforts and conveniences. Fortunately the American people are giving more thought to real comfort and less to pretense and show.

Possibly there are more kinds of stucco houses built now than that of any other material. The tiniest apartment, as well as the most palatial residence should be an index to the character of the person by whom it is arranged.

To successfully attempt the interior decoration of a home and to give it that livable atmosphere with just the right homey aspect, one must give careful attention to definite planning. Each room should be planned so that the whole will have an effect of harmony and unity. Harsh contrasts should be strictly avoided between rooms as well as parts of rooms, just as all the hangings and furniture should bear a close relationship.

If you are considering furnishing your room in period furniture, you will find the study of the different periods and styles most interesting. For those whose tastes incline to simplicity the Colonial scheme is most satisfactory. If you possess real antique heirlooms you can not value them too highly. If not there are such excellent reproductions which it is hard to distinguish from the real antique. There is a growing inclination for the Empire period in decorative schemes and for reproductions of old Italian furnishings. The wonderful colorings in the gorgeous old Italian tapestries and brocades may account for the demand for stronger colorings. There is a continued tendency for everything Chinese, especially for dining rooms. Adams Hoppelwhite, Sheraton and Chippendale are becoming familiar names to those searching for the best in period decorative schemes.

The home for summer use ought to suggest airiness and coolness. The town house, if occupied in summer, should be given an entirely different appearance, have it contain only things really necessary for every day use, but choose articles with beautiful coloring and good lines so that they will serve as ornamental as well as a useful purpose.

Bare wall spaces give a larger airy effect, so only a few really good pictures should remain on the wall, eliminate all dust collecting hangings and coverings. The rooms can be completely changed at a small expense for the shops are full of a wilderness of novelties which add attractiveness and charm.

The living-room should have a cheery, restful appearance. There is no color which has a decided popularity, though taupe, browns, mulberry, old gold and blue are used extensively. The tones are not as subdued as we have been accustomed to recently. The furniture should be selected in harmony with the woodwork. Instead of one large table, except for very large rooms, many small ones, each having a special purpose are used. Frequently the writing table is a copy of spinnet, you know the old spinnet was an old fashioned piano or melodian.

The greatest interest seems to center around the dining room. Have it as inviting and sunshiny as possible. Most persons like to select their own sideboards to match the rest of the furniture. There are not so many built sideboards in the newest apartments. A decided innovation in sideboards is those with marble tops. In fact marble tops are used also on tables and bureaus—not the Tennessee marble, which we are so familiar with, but beautiful Italian marble. A great deal of furniture in case and wood combined is used. If there is a plate rack it is placed low enough to be within reach and only a few choice pieces of rare value should be placed upon it. Much of the furniture used in the dining room has cane inserts. Round tables are used more than square ones, some tables are fitted with removable tops so the entire room space may be used if desired.

All superfluous furnishings should be abandoned in the bedroom. The bedroom can easily with the least outlay be made the most attractive room in the house. Have the color of the walls plain and depend upon the color note in your hangings and coverings. It is wise to follow the prevailing idea of having all the bedrooms in one color with different cretonnes or chintzes to give the colorful note. There are such alluring new art designs, peasant lines, sunfast materials, tulle, satins, soft silks, etc., that one ought not to find any difficulty in selecting just the right thing. Stripes and checks are used. Some rooms are furnished entirely in cretonne. It is possible to purchase an entire chamber suit which includes the bed, bureau, chairs, table, desk, work table, shirtwaist boxes, chest of drawers, millinery boxes, etc. Even though children are seen these days as well as heard, it is a good idea to have a room especially fitted for the little ones. There are new washable materials which have borders suggestive of Fairyland and Mother Goose, and washable rugs, which also have interesting borders. Have the kiddies room as dainty as possible. They will be so proud of it that they will be glad to help keep it in order.

THE WINDOWS. The windows are primarily meant to give light so don't obstruct the air and sunshine. A sheer curtain with side hangings which can be drawn to let in or omit the light, is the best selection. Some of the latest offerings in curtains have the loops woven in the material so that the rods can be slipped through with little trouble and straight even hangings are assured. If you buy the curtains by the yard, use the same material in all the rooms and have the over-drapes different in each room. From 12½¢ up to any price you wish to pay, there is a wide variety of curtain goods. The simpler the pattern, the better. A noticeable feature in drapery styles is the hanging of the curtain from the ceiling instead of from the casement. This idea comes from Germany and is probably the result of European architects to design windows which run within an inch or so of the ceiling instead of leaving a foot or two of wall above. The modern window is fitted with a sash curtain, then the over drape and then a deep valance. Some of the draperies have a bottom flounce, and extend nearly to the door instead of merely to the window sill. The back grounds patterned with gay flowers are still in strong favor, but many new weaves show tinted grounds which are given preference to white back ground.

THE PORCH. There is not one kind of porch but a variety of porches, sun parlors and sleeping rooms, out-door living rooms, and open air dining rooms. Nowadays, the house is built around the porch, instead of the porch being built around the house as formerly. The keynote of furnishing the porch should be simplicity. The outdoor room is an ever increasing factor in the healthfulness of the home. This value lies in its useableness, which only needs to be limited by the household needs. Flower boxes, hanging fern balls and baskets, swinging hammocks, and attractive cushions all help to give the sun parlor a charming appearance. Furniture with glue or nails in its construction, does not stand the exposure to all sorts of weather, as does the willow, reed or wicker furniture. There are new effects in a silver gray, in an ivory tone, in the tamed brown finish and in the natural color. Nature can be depended upon as an inspiration in the selection of colors for the outside room, for nature never makes a mistake. Green is always restful for the eye, and has proven the most serviceable color. There are new porch shades easier to manage than ever, which give an air of privacy to the sun-room. As it is quite fashionable to serve tea in the open, every necessary requisite can now be obtained suitable for porches either in natural color, or in a tone to harmonize with the other furnishings. Wicker and cretonne is always a happy combination. There are numerous appropriate pieces shown for the first time this year—tea wagons, muffin stands, stand-lamps, ferneries fitted with lamps in the center, folding sewing tables, small tables, magazine stands, waste baskets, broad settees, window boxes, comfortable chairs with deep pockets for magazines. Indeed every porch need has been supplied.

A sun parlor which recently caught my fancy had the walls latticed in pink or white plaster. Fixed panels of old fashioned flowers were framed in the lattice work. The floor was tiled in black and white. The furniture was straight lines (not of the mission type) colored in pink tone with blackish gray trimmings. The arms of the chairs were arranged so they could be raised upon small tables upon which stood Chinese lamps. The hangings were of black and white toile de jony. Flower boxes were placed against the walls. These were made so as to form tables, when not filled with ferns. All the necessary equipment for porch use was in harmony with the pink and gray color scheme.

The New Offerings in Artware and Lamps

Artware of real worthiness of design and color is no longer a luxury. The return to simplicity of form in furniture and decorations that exerted such widespread influence a few years ago, has left its mark on the least expensive of artware. So that it is now possible to satisfy one's taste for a few examples of well-modeled and harmonious articles at very little cost.

There are the products of the Ruskin potteries, many of which have the wonderful iridescence of the Tiffany Favrile glass. A characteristic of this ware is its exceeding lightness, which makes it seem of eggshell delicacy. The increasing favor of crystal has brought out many new vases and bowls of the cut crystal combined with glass. An interesting use of black wood was noted on a tripod vase of this nature which presented an effect of great richness.

Etched crystal is also being employed to some extent in desk sets. A Colonial simplicity of design is carried out in these, making them especially fitting for use with old mahogany. New designs in the bronze and brass sets are being constantly evolved in a wide range of prices. Inlaid marble is also utilized for entire sets, as well as for small art single pieces such as ash trays and inkwells.

The Royal Vienna porcelain is much seen in fashionable drawing rooms these days, its black stripes on a cream ground and gilt embossed decoration making it well adapted to schemes of period furnishing.

The Wedgewood factories have developed their Lavender Ware most successfully during the past season, and are now showing it in a great variety of flower holders, bowls and other decorative pieces.

Wedgewood furnishes also delightful inspiration for some of the season's most beautiful lamps. A handsome vase, in the black and white Jasper ware was used for the base of one of these lamps which had a shade of white silk covered with shirred black chiffon. Black tassels were hung from the pleated chiffon fringe at intervals. All white shades are frequently used with the delicate Wedgewood bases also.

Silk shades have superseded all others in general popularity, with a strong preference for the rose colorings. In shades the Empire style is most used, both for the floor lamps and table lamps. Gilded wood in Florentine design forms the base of the majority of these.

Hand decorated shades of art glass show artistic effects in landscapes, not a few of them picturing some historic ruin. These have bases often consisting of well formed vases of dark pottery.

A novel shade of old brass had set into it yellow glass so rippled as to simulate shirred silk. The base of this consisted of a slender central column of brass about which four branches arched gracefully from the bottom to the light cord.

Oriental shades of rich colorings and strange shapes are numerous. Rare embroideries form some of these; beautifully decorated paper, depicting Oriental life is used for many which have pagoda-like lines, and are hung with long silk tassels.

NEW NOTES IN FURNITURE AND FLOOR COVERINGS

BY ADELE MENDEL.
"A man's heart must be in his skill and a man's soul in his craftsmanship."
—Mabie.

There never was a time when there were so many good examples of every kind of furniture—really honest furniture to choose from. If you have learned the lessons of suitability and sincerity, and have a knowledge of artistic harmony, you will be able to select just the right pieces for the right places.

The new fashioned wicker furniture is used quite as much in rooms as on porches. Don't hesitate to occasionally buy an odd piece of well designed furniture for it will give a distinctive touch to the entire room. The old high-boy with its chest of drawers is a valuable acquisition. The low-boy may be used as a writing table in the library, as a serving table in the dining room, or as a dressing table in the bedroom. The Wingor fire-side chairs are wonderfully comfortable and are found in excellent reproductions. Color in furniture covering is an important factor in making or marring a pleasant interior.

Secretaries, combining the functions of a bookcase and a desk, were formerly made in large numbers, and are counted very desirable possessions. A great many Chinese lacquer pieces are seen in connection with the craze for Chinese decorative schemes. The most favored wood used now is antique mahogany for fine pieces, though a great deal of white and tinted enameled furniture is used and even the less valuable pieces show a combination of cane and wood.

One cannot think of furniture without thinking of rugs and carpets. The value or ownership of an antique rug lies not only in the possession of it, but in the appreciation of it. Antique rugs are not only admired for their mellow colorings glowing with life and luster, but also for the ability to retain their original appearance after generations of service.

The vegetable dyes used in coloring these rugs are not only rich in color, but also preserve the wool, giving it a silky appearance the more the rug is used. The secret of dyeing the different rugs is handed down from father to son. Different families make a study of producing a certain color in different shades. The family skillful in producing a good blue dye may not be able to produce a good red or green dye.

Larger sized rugs are asked for continually owing to the fashion of covering most of the floor. The moderate priced rugs are some cheaper on account of the tariff, but the more expensive ones remain about the same. Antique Chinese rugs in blue and gold are truly works of art, but modern reproductions made in Turkey are really a good investment and show wonderful designs.

Small rugs are used in bed rooms with the space under the bed left uncovered. Prayer rugs are used for table covers, pillow tops and chair seats. The Oriental designs in rugs are cleverly reproduced in domestic rugs. These rugs can now be ordered any size.

A very light rug is never as satisfactory as a rug with a subdued background. The plain Wilton and Chenille rugs can be obtained in every wanted shade and may also be dyed to order to match any color scheme. These come in seamless widths up to 16 ft. Some have two toned bands, and three shaded bands, bordered with conventional designs or some unusual pattern. The Axminster rug is noted for its wearing qualities and makes an excellent rug for good steady use. The patterns shown this season are a great improvement on those previously shown. One does not tire of a small patterned rug as quickly as of a large design. There is a growing demand for rag rugs, which are woven in many new shapes and designs. Rag rugs are especially appropriate for bed rooms.

An interesting feature of the rugs for summer use are those that are washable and fadeless. Nearly all these rugs are made reversible, some are plain on both sides while others have one side patterned and the other plain. There is such a large assortment of designs and colors at moderate prices for furnishing the summer home, that the variety is almost limitless.

A popular wool and fiber rug is especially designed for the dining room and living room. These come in two toned bungalow effects and all over designs, which will harmonize with the set in the Copenhagen ware was shown with the cloth embroidered in the same conventionalized fern design in matching colors.

Crystal sandwich plates of beautifully engraved glass, with cut centers, and sterling mounted rims are attractive for summer use. Sugar holders and biscuit holders will be found also in the engraved and cut crystal.

The fashionable china for state occasions is the ivory or white banded with smooth or encrusted gold bands and initialed. With this is used the rock crystal glassware or the beautiful Austrian glass, which is gold decorated, with delicate pink roses and leaves interwoven in the pattern, and a wide gold rim at the top of the glasses.

Dessert sets consisting of plates and compote for fruit or nuts are being introduced with a view to their use in the drawing room, following the charming English custom.

FOR THE WELL-APPOINTED TABLE.

iced tea sets are a novelty that promise great popularity during the summer months. The cups are very high, much like elongated chocolate cups with coaster-like saucers, shallow and small.

Four o'clock tea sets are shown in many striking patterns. Often the design of the china is carried out accurately in the same colors on embroidered tea or luncheon cloths. One such set in the Copenhagen ware was shown with the cloth embroidered in the same conventionalized fern design in matching colors.

Crystal sandwich plates of beautifully engraved glass, with cut centers, and sterling mounted rims are attractive for summer use. Sugar holders and biscuit holders will be found also in the engraved and cut crystal.

The great vogue for period designs in all furnishings has inspired the copying of many old china patterns—particularly the Chinese—some of which are famous museum pieces. The Wedgewood factories have developed some beautiful effects in these Oriental designs, reproducing splendidly the color and translucency of the antiques. Dresden china with its dainty shapes and colorings, is very popular just now for the dessert course.

Service plates are being shown in a great variety of patterns in the favored eleven inch size. The silver service plate is a feature of the more elaborate menu.

HALL & HUEBEL

BY CHARLES W. GALLOWAY

Styles, like events, often cast their shadows before them. Indications of what may be expected in styles, always appear a season or two in advance, either in a moderate form, or it may be in an extreme form, though confined in use to a few of the ultra-fashionable.

This, though, is not the birth of a vogue which often sees the first light of day abroad. There is no style dictator in America; neither is there abroad, whose recognition is universal.

Nevertheless, we look to London for the fashions and it is undeniable that London still exerts an influence in this respect. It may be said that all the principal style features of the last century had their birth in London.

"English" designing, modified with American ideas and tailoring, is the way one prominent in the clothing field put it and it might be added that the modifications often eliminate such, and in other instances leave but a vestige of the original idea. American styles thus constituted are, however, internationally known and talked of because of their grace of line and contour, their style and their elegance.

These indications do not, however, always plainly reveal the forthcoming vogue. As the season approaches, the authoritative styles become elongated while those which are not so authentic disappear. To discern the vogues in advance, before they are displayed on the tables of your favorite clothier or your tailor, is important and hence this treatise thereon.

English styles, modified with American ideas, describes better than any other words of the same number could, the styles for this forthcoming Spring and Summer. First of all, it may be said that less cloth will go into suits than ever before. This is not an economical measure, however, especially at this time when cloth is cheaper and a greater amount might be put into suits than is done, without an increase in the cost of production of the suit, but is because the tight suit is in vogue. The Athletic suit, or as it will become popularly called, the "Nix" suit, is without doubt the leading model. The characteristics of this suit are, as its name implies, the absence of any superfluous trimmings. Some of the vests are made without a back—just a strap or two across the back, and all of them are made without lining. The armholes are cut out so that the lower edge approaches the waist line, and are very wide. Coats will be tighter and pants likewise, though this is not intended to convey the impression that the skin tight trousers of a few years ago will come back, that is, not just now, though there is no means of knowing what this tendency might bring us to. The peg-top and semi-peg, even the conservative width seems to be due for a change to the narrower legs. And, speaking of the tendency toward the smaller clothing, and with reference to trousers in particular, for the younger element these must be tight at the waist, and tight around the seat as well, so that while a belt may be worn, it will not be a necessity. Three-piece suits entirely will be worn by all who have due regard to the dictates of fashion; two-piece suits which saw a decline in demand last Summer will pass this forthcoming season, except in suits of Palm Beach cloth, a fabric which has come into high favor recently for hot weather wear. But for the tightness of the suit for Spring, it will not be devoid of all comfort.

The light weight wool fabrics which will be used will be made up with an almost total absence of trimmings, or it may be said a total lack of superfluous trimmings, so that any one of the garments which compose the suit can be crumpled up into a very small bundle. The light weight suits are made largely with patch pockets and in semi-English style. Stiffening or padding of any sort will be notable because of its entire absence.

For those who might regard the unlined coats as being a little too close to nature, especially in localities where the weather is varying, suits made along the same general lines though with half lining have been provided.

Gray, blue and green, the latter more on the order of an olive shade and also a myrtle green will be among the popular Spring colors. Brown in the lighter shades may be had but this is thought will not be a large factor. Both the light weight suits and those which are made in other fabrics will be made up according to this model.

For early Spring, it is thought that the lined models will be favored, and many business men will continue to wear these latter models for the season except possibly for outing. These latter depart slightly more from the tightness that will be carried out in the construction of models for summer wear and for the younger element

Shapeliness will characterize all the models, however, for the forthcoming season.

Much has been said that the probability that English productions have a tremendous influence upon the future of clothing in the matter of style and fabric. With the English vogue now of long standing in this country, during which time it has been adapted to the American wearer, little can be expected in the nature of radical departures, at least for the next season. Coats for Spring will be just a trifle shorter, the waistcoats a trifle higher at the neck opening, and the trousers tighter as commented herein. In fabrics the influence of the new conditions brought about by the new tariff will be more in evidence.

A very much larger percentage of foreign made fabrics will be worn by all men than in the past. In former seasons, foreign fabrics were only put into the higher priced suits and in consequence many men of moderate means were unable to acquire them. Now that one of the elements in the high cost of high class clothing made of exclusive cloths, the product of foreign mills, of which little found its way to this country, is eliminated more of these fabrics have come into general use in America.

Along with these the use of the high class product of American mills has had the effect of raising the whole standard of fabrics used in clothing, at the popular prices. This has also had the effect of eliminating some of the inferior grades of cloth used much in the past.

On the subject of patterns it may be said that hairlines will be fewer in the lead over all others. Sharp colors will be popular. Blue and gray, black and white, blue and white, and other combinations and sharp contrasts lead.

The cutaway frock coat is said to be replacing the Prince Albert for professional men, and many business men of more mature years favor this model, while as a semi-dress occasion coat, made of black or oxford, either with or without bound edges, it is exceedingly popular. Fancy striped or small checked trousers are worn with this coat.

An invisible herringbone pattern made in cutaway frock style is an innovation that is expected to prove popular. Such suits with bound edge coats will continue to be favored by many.

Of overcoats for early spring, it may be said that these too are made without lining. Coverts will be popular with many, though it is not thought that they will lead in soft worsted together with black and gray plain colored materials. The Balmuccian model popular this winter in heavy weight coats will be popular with some. Favor will be divided between two models in Spring Overcoats, and these two may be said to be remote from each other in cut. One is a coat which follows closely the lines of the body, waisted and moderately tight. The other, an extremely loose model. In the latter the fancy patterns will lead while in the first mentioned will be largely in the plainer and more conservative fabrics.

Your money back here cheerfully if not satisfied!

STYLE SHOW AND OPENING, APRIL 1, 2, 3 AND 4

By CHARLES W. GALLOWAY.

Spring will be a season of novelties in furnishings. In almost every article of haberdashery there are many novelties to be had. This may not be so apparent early in the spring because of a disposition on the part of the furnisher to avoid novelties in a large measure. Many of them are afraid to introduce novelties because of the precarious nature of demand for that kind of articles. However, as the season advances and the call for novelties of the various kinds become more pronounced they will become more in demand. After all, it is the demand of the man who wishes to dress "just a little different" than the other one which determines largely what will be the style. The manufacturer is constantly creating novelties which the retailer has first opportunity to accept or reject. Their ultimate popularity depends upon whether the consumer takes to them or not, and in doing so the conservative retailer is compelled to buy them. Some, however, never get beyond the manufacturers' or the retailers' shelves. What to wear, then, is an all important question which we will try to aid in solving. Of the more important articles of haberdashery shirts probably rank first. The importance of this article is more than ever due to its importance of apparel than an article of adornment. This forthcoming season, because it seems evident now that little of the shirt will be in evidence. The waistcoat will be more generally worn in the spring than ever and the opening at the neck is slightly smaller than in the past seasons. Except with Palm Beach suits or when one is engaged in the more violent sports the waistcoat will be worn, thus permitting very little of the shirt to be visible.

However, there are reasons to believe that no less care will be given to the selection of this article of apparel. Innumerable novelties will appeal to the prospective buyer of shirts of which unshroom plants will lead. This variety may be described as having a bosom of very narrow plants made up in a manner which gives an uneven surface to the shirt front. The effect is singularly unique. These are expected to prove exceedingly popular. Pieces of various kinds follow closely. The thousand plants which sprang into sudden popularity a season ago will continue as will also some combinations the bosoms of which are made up of alternating printed stripes and stripes composed entirely of small plants. In short, plants will be strongly in the lead in all lines except possibly silks. The reign of silks continues despite several conditions which have arisen affecting this line of goods. The demand for silks has given rise to the production of inferior grades which have been used in the manufacture of shirts and which have not given satisfaction. The result has been that silk shirts will not take a place in front rank of demand, though it is evident that the better grades, those that retail at about, and above $5.00 will continue to be called for by many who favor this class of exquisite apparel. In this variety it seems certain that the louder patterns—wide stripes of strong and contrasting colors will be called for. Crepe silks will also be much in evidence.

Another novelty, though not unheard of before, is expected to meet with considerable favor, will be the cross stripes and cross pleats. Starched, turned back cuffs will vie for popularity with the soft cuffs. Of the cotton materials, woven madras will lead, with woven percales and printed madras following in the order named. The long point collars of which the supply up to recently has been inadequate, will be the popular summer collar, both in plain white and in madras. The latter will be called for more this forthcoming season than in the past. As predicted, the soft collar will not be a large factor in Spring and Summer apparel, though it is thought to have a certain legitimate field, that when actually engaged in the more violent sports, at the country club or the field, though better taste demands discrimination even then.

Speaking of the country club, another article of apparel which is said to be gaining in popularity for use on the golf course or the tennis court is the combination outfitting shirt and knee length drawers. The adoption of this garment by the leading makers, who advertise extensively, will bring this article to the attention of many to whom it will appeal for outing purposes. A new one will be brought out for Spring, the chief advantage being that it is so constructed as to not make it necessary to entirely undress in order to change it. For the man who wished to make a hurried change at his club, in order to be dressed for dinner or for return to his business or his home, this necessity to remove all his clothes to don a street shirt was a disadvantage which the new contrivance will overcome.

It is commented by those who are in a position to know, that men are buying better neckwear now than ever and this characteristic it is believed will continue into the spring. Accordingly makers and dispensers of neckwear are preparing their lines with this in view and the result will in all probability be a richer and more beautiful array of scarfs in all retail emporiums. Scarfs at a dollar and over will lead, it is thought, over the lower priced varieties except where staples are concerned. Plain colors, however, are not expected to be strong. Fancies will lead. Rumshundas and twills are being provided in stripes and figured patterns. Figures will be more popular than for some time, while stripes are expected to regain some of their lost prestige of a season or two ago. A factor in this is the introduction of many new weaves and colorings. Regimental stripes are prominent in Spring lines, as are also wide stripes in contrasting colors. Blue and gray for background colors with lacinated patterns, particularly in stripes, will be popular, as will small floral designs. Variety will rule the neckwear field in which there will be less tendency to match any other article of apparel. Contrasts will be the keynote of scarf selection. Fancy creases with crease designs and scroll effects as well as numerous bordered ends will all appeal for the popular favor though this will be somewhat divided.

In underwear, union suits will be farther in the lead than ever before, prominent in the features of which will be the closed crotch. Lisle will be favored for the early spring, giving away, as the hot weather approaches, to the strictly athletic union suit of cut nainsook, crepe, and kindred fabrics, which makes typical summer underwear. Some furnishers are buying these latter with half sleeves, maintaining that half sleeves are a sanitary measure that should be insisted upon.

In jewelry the combinations in scarf pins and cuff links to match or to harmonize with the scarf or the shirt will be the prevailing rule. Light weight and light colored malacca canes with crook handles is a popular stick.

Chamois and washable chamollette gloves will be worn, and in this connection it might be added that gloves will be worn more this forthcoming spring. Of course, for warm weather use, the lighter gloves are the thing, their function being to keep the hands unsold.

Socks are an important part of a man's attire. They are constantly engaging more attention of the discriminating dresser. There is no doubt but that white socks will reach a high point in esteem for spring. The innovation in socks is the introduction of clocks. These had gotten into disuse in favor of plain colors which some maintain, men are now getting tired of, and a probable return to clocks is the result. White clocks on black socks, black clocks on white socks are expected to be called for to quite an extent. Taking the field of furnishings as a whole from the wearer's viewpoint, it is observed that men are no longer looking askance at innovations even though radical. Infinitely more attention to detail is given to the selection and the proper wearing of the various "little things" about his apparel. He is becoming more fastidious and it would not be surprising in view of the distinct tendency of the present day if men should not in time give as much thought to their attire as women, a condition much desired by the haberdasher and those whose function is to supply the new apparel.

By CHARLES W. GALLOWAY.

Hats for Spring present some novel features, although it cannot be said that there are any radical changes from a season or two ago. The departures though not extreme, nevertheless are distinctly different, and of such a nature that the man who cares about his apparel cannot disregard them.

Probably the most distinct feature of Spring hats is known as the Puggere band. This is a Taffeta band gathered into tufts, somewhat loosely, and extending lengthwise around the hat. This will appear in soft hats and upon Bankoks and Panamas.

A draped Taffeta band is another novelty that will, it is believed, meet with considerable approval. This band consists of a wide piece of Taffeta ribbon draped around the hat something on the order of that style in which a milliner might drape a piece of silk around a lady's hat. Of course the draping is not near so full as that which the milliner might do, but the idea is the same. Men are less fearful of wearing things that are unusual or out of the ordinary than they have ever been, and it is expected that the draped or puggere band hats will be welcomed. Higher crowns and narrow brims will be one characteristic of all Spring hats. Fencil curl brims will prevail.

Soft hats for early Spring will have dimensions of 8 1/2 x 2 soft hats and straw hats will have the same general character. As usual black is the only color for Derby hats. Efforts every season to bring out colors in stiff hats have regularly failed. There is no call for other than blacks.

It is another fact worthy of comment that soft hats for Spring favor the darker shades. Grays will be the leading color; in fact dark gray even more closely defines the leading color, but this must not be taken to mean that there will be a lack of variety in coloring. It is really a revelation to note the numerous mixtures in grays, each while being generalized as gray, displays distinct differences from other grays. Mixtures are expected to be strong in hats, and while there has probably been no definite move to make these mixtures match any other article of apparel, the fact that mixtures prevail in suitings also gives the thought that possibly there will be a tendency on the part of the wearer to match the suit after a manner. This facility for matching the suit was the one thing that helped to make the cloth hat popular with many, and if a harmonious effect can be gained between the color scheme of the suit and the felt hat, it would not be surprising if that became quite a find. Predictions are however, in the nature of speculations, but this is one of the possibilities of the season. Next to gray it may be said that blue hats will be worn quite extensively with brown also a favorite.

The new shade of the season will be known as "raisin." If one can see in his mind's eye the color of the dried raisin, he might have just a slight conception of the color. To what extent this will be taken to is problematical. Contrasting bands will be another feature of the Spring hat. It is predicted that the bankok and the panama will be stronger than ever in the order named. These will have about the same shape as the soft felt hats, even to the broken crease straight from front to back, broken at the center by being pressed apart. This will be incorporated in the panamas and bankoks, which as noted will be in high shape, following closely the soft hat styles. Puggere and draped bands will adorn some. There will be many novelty shapes. In straw rough ideas will prevail. Sennits are always a popular straw and prove even more attractive in the high crown and narrow brim shapes.

For outing or traveling there is no hat as serviceable as the stitched silk hat made with a scull crown and turned up brim. They are light and can be folded up to occupy a small space. Last season the demand for these exceeded the supply.

Correct Landscape Gardening

Let Us Make the Surroundings of Your Home Beautiful

No ordinary man can lay out his own place and make perfect premises any more than an ordinary man can sit down and administer the right kind of medicine to himself when he is sick, because it is a business all by itself.

It is just as particular, if not more so to have the plans of your grounds well laid out as well as the plans of the house on the grounds. One is just as essential as the other. Many a man has started to make his home grounds beautiful; has gone ahead and bought expensive trees and shrubs of all kinds and because he did not have a knowledge of the particular characteristics of the trees and shrubs he bought and how and where to place them, he spoiled his entire premises. Many a man has spent three to four times the cost of correct landscape design and planting for trees and shrubs that did not make his place look right at all.

We have great quantities of home grown Hardy Shrubs and Ornamental Plants and have the knowledge of how where and when to set them to get best results. Come in and let us tell you what it costs and what we can do for you.

New Spring styles are now ready in Hart Schaffner & Marx fine clothes

IT'S always an event which deserves notice when a new season in men's clothes starts; especially when the clothes are such as we're showing from Hart Schaffner & Marx. Never before in the history of clothing business have we known so fine a line of goods as these.

The models designed for young men are especially attractive. Special fabrics are chosen for these goods; patterns and colorings that are a little livelier than older men wear. The models are the work of special designers who give their attention exclusively to the creation of young men's styles.

The new tariff law makes it possible to use in ready clothes many imported weaves which have heretofore been too costly for such uses. The usual very large range of fabrics and patterns in American goods will not be less. Checks, plaids, tartans, Shepherd plaids, Glen Urquhart plaids, black-and-white, blue-and-white, soft grays, greens, browns; pencil stripes, chalk lines. You'll find what you want among them.

NEW THINGS IN SHOES

By CHARLES W. GALLOWAY.

Styles in shoes, is a phrase that will have more significance when used in referring to the Spring showing, than is usually implied by the expression. The elements of real style have been entering more and more into the construction of shoes for some seasons and now that there is a tendency on the part of the wearer to take kindly to novelties in shoes, makers have given more attention to the production of novelties. The result is apparent in the Spring showing.

First of all, it may be said that cloth tops are expected to be a very important factor in the Spring demand. Cloth tops were introduced, or rather re-introduced for Fall and the discriminating dresser took to them at once. Their introduction was in the nature of an experiment, and was limited to a very small number of combinations. The forthcoming season will bring out many more, among them, gray uppers over either Black or Tan, gray over tan, white over gray or black—these and variations from these fundamental colors. White over patent and gray over patent will it is thought, be the popular combinations for such semi-dress affairs which usually occur at the country club or for lawn functions. All of these combinations will appear in Oxfords for Spring.

The Custom or English last is easily the favorite. Flat or 7/8 heels lead, and a general tendency favoring the long vamp is apparent. It is said that we are getting away from the short vamps. The long forequarter styles are expected to lead by a wide margin. This is a move in the direction of greater comfort.

The business man it is thought will call for blacks or dark tans. In fact there is a strong disposition to favor the darker shades of tan in both the regular and the Oxford shoes. While there may be some pumps worn on the street this is not expected to be an authoritative vogue. The Oxfords of general use will be the regular heights. Button shoes lead strongly although provisions have been made for the man who favors the lace or the blucher, the latter being favored by many who take to comfort, or who may have trouble in getting shoes that will give the least degree of discomfort to tender feet.

Another feature which is incorporated in the Spring styles is the rubber sole and another, the Elkskin sole. These have hitherto been used mainly in shoes for outing purposes, and for that matter will continue to be a feature of the construction of outing shoes, but they will become more and more a feature of shoes for general purpose and street wear.

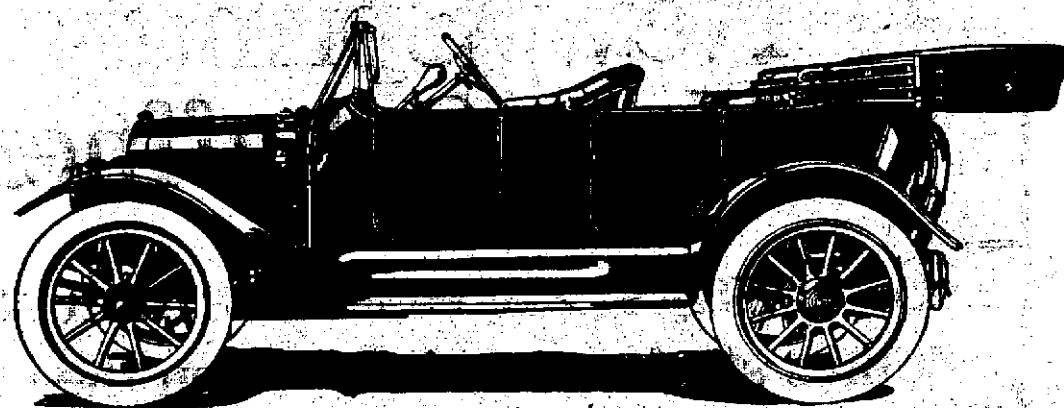

Rubber or Elkskin soles have never been surpassed for walking comfort, and it is this that makes them favorites. They may be had with either tan or black uppers, and either in flat heel or with a separate heel. It is thought that the separate heel will be in the lead owing to the natural desire to require a heel support. They come mostly in the straight ball.

It is commented in the stores that there has been a distinct tendency toward the higher priced shoes.

White cloth shoes and white buck will it is thought also be favorites, mainly for semi-outing wear. Buttons will also offer another novel feature, in that they will be of various shades harmonizing with the leather of the lower part of the shoe or with the cloth of the upper. For the man with the highly developed idea of color harmony the color schemes that may be worked out in a man's attire by the use of footwear effects harmonizing with the hose, the suit, hat or some other, indeed all other articles of apparel offer wonderful possibilities. The same conditions may hold some degree of terror for the man who is little versed or used to combining colors. Here the advice of the salesman may be deemed necessary. The conventional black or the conservative brown or tan which appear to be the leading colors are always available and harmonize with almost any other color shade or combination.

The Pioneer of the Past—and of the Future

Maxwell "25-4" 5-Passenger Touring Car $750

The Oldest, and yet the newest car at this year's Automobile Shows is the Maxwell "25."

No name dates farther back in this industry—and yet if you look where the crowd blocks the aisle, you'll agree that visitors consider the latest Maxwell—the "25-4"—the newest of them all.

To say this $750 car was the "sensation" of the 1914 Shows, would be trite—though true. It is more than that.

It is Revolutionary

Revolutionary, because never before has it been possible to obtain a car of such size, such capacity, such power, such performance and of such quality throughout, as you will see in this Maxwell "25" at the price—$750 fully equipped.

Revolutionary, too, because maintenance cost has been reduced to the minimum by putting in this car the best steels known to science—thus making it light, yet practically indestructible. So you can now not only afford to buy, but to keep an automobile.

We call it an engineering triumph. And you'll agree we are justified when you recall that for years, hundreds of thousands have been looking, hoping, waiting, for such a car at the price.

We say this car was the Oldest car in the Shows—because more years of experience; more combined engineering skill; more know-how have gone into it than ever went into any other automobile at the price.

And, backing up that experience; that skill; that know-how; is as much money as ever backed an automobile concern.

Add to this, honesty of purpose, pride, and a desire to make good and to deserve well at the hands of every owner;—and you have the elements that combined have produced this car that is the wonder of every Show—that blocks the aisle in front of the exhibit and thereby is proclaimed the "Newest as well as the Oldest car in all the Shows. The Pioneer of the past—and of the future—the Maxwell "25."

NOVELTIES FOR LITTLE FELLOWS

BY CHARLES W. GALLOWAY

Never in the history of the boys' clothing industry has there been created for a season as many new models to appeal to the buyer of little fellows' clothes. The head of a boys' clothing department in one prominent store in a large city said that the store had eight hundred models and combinations. There will be no dearth of styles therefore, the fear being rather that the great number of styles and designs will perplex the prospective purchaser. At the outset, it may be said that Russian and the sailor styles may be practically eliminated from consideration. These having done their duty have gone to a merited rest.

Foremost among the models which will appeal to the mother's eye, will be the combination popularly known as the Oliver Twist, or by some, the Dutch suit. This is a one-piece garment made of two materials, which match or at least harmonize as to color combination. It may be had either in wool and heavy materials or in wash suits. In the former, blue or white serge pants are combined with striped or checked waist, one of the colors in which matches the pants which are made of plain colored material with the straight bottoms. The suit buttons on, with large pearl buttons, these composing the only trimming. A combination, which is expected to prove a winner in this style is made with black velvet pants and a Shepherd plaid waist. The white pearl buttons make exquisite trimmings. In wash suits there is an almost endless array of combinations. Another model is a midday suit with straight pants and straight cut blouse. Among the somewhat extreme models, of which there are many, one which is expected to attract most attention may be denominated an English Officer Suit. It comes principally in a blue coat faced at the collar and cuffs with white and trimmed with braid. The coat is short and has rounded corners. May be had with blue pants cut straight or with white pants of the same material as the facing. Practically all the juvenile suits are made with straight pants. A showing of straight pants in suits for the larger boys last season did not seem to meet with much favor and as a result knickerbockers with button instead of buckle have come into use again, but all little fellows' suits, up to ten year sizes are made with straight pants. Still another novelty—space forbids a description of many—is a sash suit, made much on the order of the Oliver Twist, the difference being a sash, something on the Fauntleroy order.

Then for boys a little older, just after the novelty juvenile suit is discarded and just before the manly Norfolk suit is donned, the junior Norfolk is the thing which will get the eye. This has been called "a big style for little men" and combines in its construction the elements of the Norfolk with some of the elements of the small boys' suit. It comes either single or double breasted and has a turn down self collar which buttons up close to the neck, made in three button style straight trousers and patch pockets. It might be added at this juncture that everything will be patch pockets in suits from ten to seventeen and even in many of the smaller styles.

Coming now to clothes for the school boy. The principal difference in clothes for the boy up to seventeen years of age is in the fabric, rather than the style. One or two new things will be described hereinafter, but the thing of great interest in boys' clothing is that much better and a greater variety of fabrics will enter into the construction of these goods. Having the vast foreign markets as well as the domestic market to draw upon has greatly increased the number of patterns. These beggar description, though it might be said that a double stripe on blue or black ground is a handsome one, so to gain attention. Strong color mixtures is the feature, in two tone effects the colors stand out strongly. Rough effects will predominate. A novelty worthy of special note is a yokeless Norfolk coat suit with what is known as a three piece belt. In the back a half belt is stitched on as far as to the side seams. Above this are the only pleats, there being none in the front.

At each end of this stitched-on half belt the front part of the belt buttons, so that it may be detached at will, leaving the effect of a young man's coat, with patch pockets, and rounded corners.

Norfolk rearsers will be provided for those boys who want an early spring outer garment, and spring overcoats made on the Balmacran order may be had. Palm Beach suits will also be shown in sizes from seven to seventeen, for the real hot weather. A waist has been designed, the collar of which may be turned in on the effect of a V shape and the edges made by so doing will be finished. The waist also has a regular collar, has three-quarter sleeves.

English cloth hats are expected to meet with much favor with mothers who have been dismayed by the youngster's determination to wear caps. It is thought that the boy will take to these which look more stylish than the cap.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

AUTOMATIC CONVERSATION.

A FRIEND who dropped in to call the other afternoon found me curled upon the couch with a touch of the grippe. She expressed her sympathy, mentioned two other friends who were also afflicted with violent colds, and then startled me, and I suspect herself, by saying automatically the words which had been on her lips when she first entered, and which had been driven back by finding me on the couch.

I relate this little incident as an example of the extent to which the automatic and the obvious dominate conversation among conventional people.

One of Margaret Deland's characters, an embarrassed young lover, blurts out a remark in praise of the weather and then suddenly remembering that it is raining hard, explains his praise by saying, "I meant it isn't raining quite so hard as it was yesterday."

Not being embarrassed young lovers, of course you and I would not be guilty of anything quite so absurd. But haven't you sometimes caught yourself making some automatic remark about the weather that didn't tally with actual conditions? I'm sure I have, and felt as foolish as I deserved to.

"Thinking is just what nobody wants to do," someone has said. And the average person proves this fact in his conversation both by the automatic and unthinking things he does say and the intelligent and the worthwhile things he doesn't say.

It is remarkable how little is said that might not just as well have been left unsaid at the average dinner table or under the evening lamp. Obviouslyness is the order of the day. Somebody makes a perfectly obvious statement and somebody else picks it up and restates it in an equally briefer manner, or adds something equally obvious; and nobody seems to notice the absurdity of it all.

Now the hallmark of really intelligent conversation is to take the obvious for granted.

Thinking people save their breath to say things that are interesting, either as news or as the product of actual thinking or intelligent observation on their part.

For a child to be brought up in a household where the talk is the product of thought instead of merely the vocalization of a set of mental reflexes, is as valuable to him as a mental education.

Nor is it merely among the so-called lower classes that the people who don't bother to base their conversations on thought are found. I know many people of "the cultured class" whose conversation is a series of banalities, and many of the uneducated class who have the precious habit of thought. A letter came to me this very morning crudely written, filled with misspelled words, plainly the work of an uneducated man, and yet packed with thoughts. I'd rather hear that than talk to some college professors.

If you think before you talk you may talk a good deal less, but the world will probably survive the curtailment.

COLLECTION OF CAKES.

Prune Cake.—Cream a tablespoonful of butter with four tablespoonfuls of sugar; add the grated rind of a lemon and one beaten egg all mixed well together. Add a cup of flour, a teaspoon of baking powder, a quarter of a cup of milk. Place the dough in a pan and place on top a layer of pitted and stewed prunes. Bake and serve, covered with sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

Crumb Cake.—Take two and a half cups of flour, add one and a half cups of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-fourth of a teaspoon of salt, cloves, nutmeg and cinnamon, and mix well; when well mixed, take out a cupful and to the remainder add two well beaten eggs, one cup of sour milk, one small teaspoon of soda. Beat well and put into a deep square tin. Sprinkle the cupful of crumbs on top and bake slowly.

Hickory Nut Cake.—Take a pound of butter, soften by heat until creamy, add one and a half pounds of light brown sugar, ten whole eggs, one pound each of flour and raisins, one-fourth of a pound of citron and a pound of broken nut meats, one grated nutmeg, one-half glass of orange juice.

German Cherry Cake.—This is the cake recipe which was prepared at the St. Louis fair. Take three cups of canned red cherries, one cupful of flour, six tablespoonfuls of sugar, the yolks of two eggs and a quarter of a cup of milk, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half a teaspoon of baking powder and a quarter of a teaspoon of salt. Sift the flour and dry ingredients, beat the yolks of the eggs and add to the flour; fold in the whites after mixing all the other ingredients and spread in a pan an inch thick; drain the cherries and spread over the dough, sprinkle with sugar and bake in a brisk oven.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To prevent breaking glass top of coffee percolator, when the glass top is new, before using, put in basin of cold water, put on the stove and slowly heat to boiling point, then boil fifteen minutes and it will not break in using.

If paraffin be spilled on a carpet, a good handful of oatmeal should at once be laid on the spot. Leave it untouched for at least a day, then remove it and brush the carpet with a stiff broom.

When milk has burned pour it at once into a pitcher and stand it in a basin of cold water until it is cool, when it will be found to be quite free from the burned smell and taste.

To singe chicken, put one teaspoonful of alcohol into a saucer or tin dish and set it afire. Hold the fowl in the flame and you will have it singed perfectly in a few moments.

THE TABLE.
Veal Cutlets and Bacon.—Chop raw lean veal fine, season well with celery salt and pepper, and with your hands mold into oval shape. Roll in egg and fine crumbs and leave on the ice all night. In the morning fry thin slices of bacon, remove them to a hot dish and fry the cutlets slowly in the fat left in the pan. Drain, arrange on a platter and lay the bacon about them. Pass tomato sauce with them.

Stuffed Sea Bass.—Clean, wipe and lay for an hour in a mercuric iodine oil and vinegar. Fill with a forcemeat of minced salt pork and chopped champignons. Frush mushrooms are, of course, better if you can get them.

Bake up shavings of fat salt pork. When it has baked forty minutes cover with fresh tomatoes, peeled and sliced thin and half a sweet green pepper. Drop bits of butter upon the tomatoes and bake twenty minutes longer. Take up the fish and keep hot while you strain the gravy left in the pan, rubbing the tomatoes and pepper through a colander; stir in a teaspoonful of butter rolled in flour, add a teaspoonful of sugar and two of onion juice, with hot water if too thick; boil one minute, pour half over the fish, the rest into a sauceboat.

Stewed Dandelions.—Cut the stems from half a peck of dandelion leaves and break each into small bits, dropping these into cold water as you do so. Wash thoroughly, drain and lay in cold water for fifteen minutes. Drain again and put over the fire in a kettle with enough salted water to cover them. Simmer for fifteen minutes, while you make the following sauce: Cook together a tablespoonful each of butter and flour and pour upon them a pint of milk in which a pinch of soda has been dissolved. Stir to a smooth white sauce. Drain the water from the dandelion leaves and stir these into the sauce. Season to taste and beat in very slowly a whipped egg. Remove at once from the fire and turn into a deep vegetable dish.

Maccosine of Vegetables.—a la Poulette.—Clean carrots and turnips and cut into strips of fancy shapes; there should be one and one-fourth cups of carrots and one cup of turnips. Cook separately in boiling salted water until soft. Drain and add one and one-fourth cups of cooked peas. Reheat in a sauce made of three tablespoonfuls of butter, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one cup of chicken stock and one-half cup of cream. Season to taste with pepper and salt before serving add the yolks of two eggs and one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice.

What He Wanted to See.
Three-year-old Emerson had an idea all music was produced by a method similar to that of the talking machine, with which he was familiar. One time he attended a band concert and insisted on going up to the band stand after the band had played a selection. His father asked him why he wanted to go and he replied, "I want to watch them change the needles."

Has No Advantage.
That Berlin physician who boasts that he can detect truth from falsehood by the breath has no advantage over the wives of men who try to hide it by eating cloves.—New York Herald.

emotions expressed in Dancing.
In the Vedas of the Hindus, some of which date back 6,000 years before Christ; there is steady reference to dancing as an expression of triumph, worship, and even the deepest grief. It is the same in the Zendavestas of the Persians. Dancing with cymbals and tambourines, with bells tied to their ankles and wrists or around their waists, was an art that the priestesses in the temples must understand.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Would you please tell me what is good for moths?

(2) And for gray hair.

MISS N.

(1) In putting away winter clothes and furs make bags of newspapers. You can stitch several sheets of paper together on the machine to make a strong bag.

Bags of tan paper can also be used, but of course cost more. Put the clothes in the bags and tuck the top of bag securely so moths can't get in. I have always kept my clothes beautifully this way. Cedar chips are used by some; also tobacco dust and camphor.

(2) If it is time for the hair to get gray you can't stop it. But you can hold back gray hair often by keeping in good health, thoroughly brushing daily, cleanliness and scalp massage with a little vaseline two or three times a week.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am going to entertain eight or nine girls some evening and they have offered to tie a comforter for me. I don't know whether to invite them for supper or serve them refreshments in the evening.

Will you suggest menus for both supper and evening refreshments? I want to give them both nut bread and cream puffs as they are anxious to try both. Will you please use these in your menus?

L. M.

Supper—Cold boiled ham and potato salad, with nut bread. Creamed corn. Cream puffs and hot chocolate. Nuts and candies.

Lap refreshments—Meat and lettuce sandwiches of white bread. Creamed cheese sandwiches of white bread. Creamed cheese sandwiches of nut bread and butter. Radishes, sweet pickles or olives. Cream puffs, hot chocolate, nuts and candies.

It would be better to serve supper at a table, if you have room, to do that.

Decorate with daffodils or any of the seasonable flowers.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I was going with a fellow for about three months, but found out that I did not care for him and could not "go" him any more. He keeps running after me. He follows me wherever I go. Should I tell him he will have to stop teasing after me?

(2) Will brown shoes be worn much this spring?

(3) I am going to give a party for my friends, boys and girls. What kind of games would be nice to play?

(4) I have a friend whose breath is bad; she doesn't know what to do. Her teeth are in good order and she keeps them clean. She doesn't want to go to a doctor.

CONSTANT READER.

(1) If you do not pay any attention to him he will soon get tired of teasing you.

(2) Do you mean bronze or tan shoes? Tan shoes will be as popular as ever. Bronze shoes are worn only for dressy occasions.

(3) Buzz, Barber Shop, Questions and Answers. Picture Puzzles.

(4) Her stomach may be out of order. She might get some charcoal tablets and take them according to directions.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I work in a cigar factory; do you think tobacco will affect me in any way?

(2) Some people say that a decent girl would not go roller skating. Do you see any harm in it?

(3) What color dress would be pretty if made for evening wear?

BROWN EYES.

(1) If you do not smoke or chew the tobacco it will not do you any great harm to work in a cigar factory, though I do not think it is the best or most beautiful occupation in the world for a girl.

(2) I do not think roller skating is indecent if one skates in a respectable place. It is a good exercise if one does not overdo. However, all exercise is more beneficial if taken in the open air.

(3) Any of the delicate shades, and white, may be worn in the evening. In selecting a shade, see how it looks

WILEY GIVES RULES ON HOME HAPPINESS

Former Head of Chemistry Bureau Lays Down Seven Ways to Keep Hubby at Home.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Good wholesome food at all times.
Food that is well cooked.
Clean tablecloth at all meals.
Flowers on the table occasionally.
Meet him at the door with a smile.

Have his slippers close at hand.
Madison, Wis., March 31.—Dr.
Harvey W. Wiley, former chief of the bureau of chemistry at Washington, offered these suggestions as a preventive of divorce and a promotive in keeping "hubby" in at night. He spoke before an audience at the University of Wisconsin.
"It is of far more importance to be able to cook a potato right than to have painted Michael Angelo's greatest masterpiece," declared the militant food expert. "The American people are the worst cooks of any, while they ought to be the best because of their advanced educational ideas. There is an enormous need for good cooks in this country."
"We sympathize with the man who starves," continued Dr. Wiley, "but never with the one who dies from overfeeding. For every one to die from lack of food there are ten who die from overfeeding. The feeding of infants is of vast importance, and very little is done in the United States to enlighten the young mother in this respect. The food that is good for the child is not always good for the infant."

Buried, but Not Lost.

It is a good thing to bury the hatchet, but the trouble with this pastime is that somebody always puts a marker at the place to show where the implement is.—Chester Times.

The General says:

"There are real guarantees, also talk imitations"

There are a lot of guarantees offered on roofings. Most of them are by irresponsible people or merely conversational guarantees.
It's a very important thing in a guarantee that there should be responsibility, and that it should be in writing.

Certain-teed

Quality Roofing Durability
Certified Certain-teed

Since we have been giving a regular written guarantee on Certain-teed Roofing, one class of competitors has been saying that their roofing "will generally last twenty years, or longer." They don't guarantee it, however, at all. It's very easy to talk, talk, talk and say any number of years in such talk, but responsible concerns must know all about their roofing if they do any more than talk—they must know their roofings really do last when they sign a printed guarantee of plain requirements that the roofing shall make good. Of course, the irresponsible type—those who are likely to go out of business soon —can sign anything. It's very important that the buyer should not be caught in such a trifling manner.

Another very important thing is, these talk guarantees are offered on the cheapest goods the manufacturers make; not being real guarantees, there is no risk. They say nothing about their highest priced brands and qualities—just offer the cheapest thing they have—offer a talk guarantee on cheap goods equal to the real guarantee given on Certain-teed Roofing. It's funny how many people they catch on such things!
When you buy a piece of roofing you should know—and know in writing—that it is the best quality—best brand goods made by that manufacturer. Remember—make him put this in writing, that it is his best in every way, and then have the guarantee in writing and properly signed, too.

It pays to be careful in buying goods where the quality could not be judged by the sample—where everything must depend upon the standing and ability of the manufacturer to make good over a long period of years in the future.

Certain-teed Roofing is sold at a reasonable price everywhere by dealers who believe in giving unsurpassed quality at a fair profit. The amount of Certain-teed Roofing required for an average roof, say ten squares, will cost less than $5 over the cheap mail order grade.
This small initial cost is saved many times in the fifteen years' wear which is covered by the manufacturer's guarantee.

Manager in Wisconsin Exchange.

On April 1 H. G. Bendinger, present district manager of the Wisconsin Telephone company, with headquarters at the Janesville exchange, will be succeeded by W. N. Cash, former manager of the Beloit exchange. This change resulted from the resignation of Mr. Bendinger, who leaves Janesville for Milwaukee, where he will take up the practice of law. While Mr. Bendinger has only been in charge of the Janesville exchange for resignation is regretted by his friends here.

may go to Waukesha to receive treatment for rheumatism.

Rev. Gold of Minneapolis spent Thursday night in Brodhead, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Kurtz.
Mrs. J. N. Emminger went to Albany Friday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Fred Christopher.
Mrs. D. Roderich returned Friday to her home in Monroe, having been a guest for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell.

Mrs. Ida Towne of Rockford is the guest of her mother, Mrs. William Douglas.
J. C. McNair of Chicago spent Thursday night in Brodhead with his sister, Miss Grace McNair.
Miss May Lucas was a passenger to Madison Friday afternoon, where she is the guest of her brother, Frank.
Miss Alice Harnage is visiting in Milwaukee.

Misses Doris and Prudence Wooster are visiting in Beloit with their aunt, Mrs. Nina Behrline.

dancing was a part of Egyptian wor-

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE

STRAY BRICKS.

From Chicago comes a pathetic tale of a woman, seventy years old, who is building for herself a cottage from such stray bricks as she is able to find lying around.

Unusual and brave woman! Nay, rather, let us say unusual and brave person, for how many men at her age would even dream of attempting such a thing?

Let the critic say, "It won't be much of a cottage when it is built."

Very true, but far more than many a palace or skyscraper, it will be the embodiment of an ideal. Its foundations will be laid in hope, and its bricks will be cemented together with the mortar of high achievement.

Of stray bricks, remember!
Of bricks that are rejected as unfit for further service; of bricks that are despised. Not of new, clean, fresh brick, straight from the brickyards, but of clay blocks which would otherwise have been lost.

Many a person complains that a life cannot be built unless first class material be provided. How often do we hear, for example, the young man say:
"If I had only had a chance to go to college I might have amounted to something," or, "If my father had been rich I could have succeeded in business."

Earning for new, fresh bricks, you see. Unwillingness to use the material which lies close at hand, and neglect therefore of the opportunity of doing any building at all.

All such could learn from the old Chicago woman. If she had waited to build or start her cottage until someone should have given her a load of new bricks how long do you think she would have been in erecting the little home?

So it is in the business of acquiring an education and in the business of making a life. Around us lie the stray bricks waiting to be picked up. They are the opportunities which we neglect.
Lightly used they may be reared upon another until a fair edifice rises before the view.

If you have no new bricks wherewith to build your life look around you for the stray material which may serve your purpose.

Perhaps—who knows?—it may be better than the new. In the exertion of gathering it there may be the acquisition of strength for the raising of the building.

eating onions, after all."

On the Spur of the Moment

The Spring Hat.
Whence and what art thou, ridiculous shape?
A month ago a woman wore velvet with gauzy draper.
Or a man's Fedora.
Or something with a stack
Of violets and things
Or wings—
We couldn't quite keep track
Of all they did wear
And then thou comest. Thou?
Wow!
And now
We are up against thee good and hard.
We meet
Thee on every street,
Thou thing-of beads
And stick-up feathers
We don't know whether We're seeing things or not.
The latest!
They are thicker than Tomato cans in a vacant lot.
Blackberries or the pulchritans
On a dog stars in the sky,
Or flies.
It came quicker
'N scat,
That Hat.

It is not
That we have any particular objection
To this confection—
Not the least under the sun;
It is none
Of our obsequies. They are not our style.
We should smile,
They are not.
We men have got
Our little weaknesses—our Red neckties—
And we surmise
That our array,
Bright and gay,
Only is foolish, just a bit,
We admit.
Funny coats, hysterical hose,
But we have nothing like that skew-Hawed and stupendous beady sky-piece,
Nit.

And so, O hat,
Monstrosity of beads,
Wave on,
Thou're at the bat,
O hat,
This is thy busy day,
And thou wilt stay
In shoals and swarms and myriads awhile,
Thou style,
Then fade away.
Hurray!

Uncle Abner.
Mrs. Hank Tumms says she doesn't know when she has got her hat on right or hind side before and Hank says it doesn't make no difference, s'fur as he kin see. It looks just as punk one way as t'other.

Ben Blake, our gentlemanly station agent, says when he takes his gal out for a ride, he never gets a busted tire. He takes her down the road and back on the handcar when he fills the switch lights.

Elmer Jones has got a new overcoat with wooden buttons in it and he has caused three runaways with it already this week. It is a genuine English overcoat made by an Indian out in Wyoming out'n a horse blanket.

There are plenty of ways to be on-happy without tryin' to figger out William James' book on psychology —whatever in tophat that is.
No matter how fur the sanitarians go, there will never be a dog in this world that doesn't have a few fleas once in awhile.

Sugar Cane.
Sugar cane is a species of grass.
The stalks or canes resemble corn stalks of regions further north.
Great quantities of cane are grown in Louisiana and other southern states. As the canes approach maturity they throw out a long smooth hollow joint, termed the arrow. As the joints ripen the leaves wither and fall away with the stem. The juice is extracted by being pressed in a sugar mill between several heavy rollers.
The juice is forced out by pressure and is immediately boiled down to prevent fermentation.

Shakespearean Glossary.
Macbeth strode down upon the witches. "What make you there?"
quoth he. "Scapple," replied she of Endor, and Macbeth strode off the while the cold wind howled upon the laird's bonnie blue knees.

MOTHER! IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If cross, feverish, constipated, bilious, stomach sour, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile, and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups.
Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which has full directions for babies, children of all ages, and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

ing sorry for me, when I never could stand. Well, he was a man any one might honor. I've always thought a woman ought to have two husbands: one to love and cherish, and the other to honor and obey. I had the latter, at any rate.

"And you've lived, Judith," he said. "Yes," she agreed, with a little sigh. "I've lived. I've had Shirley, and she's twenty and adorable. And I've had plenty of pretty things to look at, and old lace to wear, and I've kept my figure and my vanity—I'm not too old yet to thank the Lord for that! So don't talk to me about worsted shawls and horrible arctics. For I won't wear 'em. Not if I know myself! Here comes Shirley. She's made two juleps, and if you're a gentleman, you'll distract her attention till I've got rid of mine in my usual way."

The major, at the foot of the cherry-bordered lane, looked back across the box-hedge to where the two figures sat under the rose-arbor, the mother's face turned lovingly down to Shirley's at her knee. He stood a moment watching them from under his slouched hat-brim.

"You never looked at me that way, Judith, did you?" he sighed to himself. "It's been a long time, too, since I began to want you to—most forty years. When it came to the show-down, I wasn't even as fit as Tom Dandridge!"

CHAPTER IX.

Damory Court.

"Dar's Damory Court smack-dab ahead, sub!" John Vallant looked up. Facing them at an elbow of the broad road, was an old gateway of time-nicked stone, clasping an iron gate that was quaint and heavy and red with rust. He put out his hand.

"Wait a moment," he said in a low voice, and as the creaking conveyance stopped, he turned and looked about him.

Facing the entrance the land fell away sharply to a miniature valley through which rambled a willow-bordered brook, in whose shallows short-horned cows stood lazily. Beyond, whither wound the Red Road, he could see a drowsy village, with a spire and a cupolaed court-house; and farther yet, a yellow gorge with a wisp of white smoke curling above it marked the course of a crawling far-away railway.

"Re's or moughty fine o' place, sub."

"You promise, John?" "I give my sacred word. What ever the provocation, I will not lift my hand against him. Never, never!" Then the same voice, vibrant, appealing. "Judith! It isn't because—because—you care for him?"

He had plunged away in the darkness before her answer came. What had it mattered then to him what she had replied? And that very night had betwixt the fatal quarrel.

The major started. How that name had blown away the dust! "That's a long time ago, Judith."

"Thirty years ago, tomorrow they fought," she said softly, "Valiant and Sassoon. Every woman has her one anniversary, I suppose, and tomorrow's mine. Do you know what I do, every fourteenth of May, Monty? I keep my room and spend the day always the same way. There's a little book I read. And there's an old hair-cloth trunk that I've had since I was a girl. Down in the bottom of it are some—things, that I take out and set round the room. . . . and there is a handful of old letters I go over from first to last. They're almost worn out now, but I could repeat them all with my eyes shut. Then there's a tiny old straw basket with a yellow wisp in it that once was a bunch of cape jessamines. I wore them to that last ball—the night before it happened. The fourteenth of May used to be sad, but now, do you know, I look forward to it! I always have a lot of jessamines that particular day—I'll have Shirley get me some tomorrow—and in the evening, when I go downstairs, the house is full of the scent of them. All summer long it's roses, but on the fourteenth of May it has to be jessamines. Shirley must think me a whimsical old woman, but I insist on being humored."

He smiled, a little bleakly, and cleared his throat.

"Isn't it strange for me to be talking this way now?" she said presently. "Another proof that I'm getting old. But the date brings it very close; it seems, somehow, closer than ever this year—Monty, weren't you tremendously surprised when I married Tom Dandridge?"

"I certainly was."

"I'll tell you a secret. I was, too. I suppose I did it because of a sneaking mid dat big revenue ob trees," said Uncle Jefferson. "But Ah reckon et ain't got none ob de modern convinnances."

As Vallant jumped down he was possessed by an odd sensation of old acquaintance—as if he had seen those tall white columns before—an illusory half-vision into some shadowy, fourth-dimensional landscape that belonged to his subconscious self, or that, glimpsed in some immaterial dream-picture, had left a faint-etched memory. Then, on a sudden, the vista vibrated and widened: the white columns expanded and shot up into the clouds, and from every bush seemed to peer a friendly black savage with woolly white hair!

"Wishing-House!" he whispered. The hidden country which his father's thoughts, sadly recurring, had painted to the little child that once he was, in the guise of an endless wonder-tale! His eyes misted over, and it seemed to him that moment that his father was very near.

Leaving the negro to unload his belongings, he traversed an overgrown path of mossed gravel, between box-rows frowned like the manes of lions gone mad and smothered in an accumulation of matted roots and debris of rotting foliage, and presently, the bullock at his heels, found himself in the rear of the house.

"Mine!" he said aloud with a rueful pride. "And for general run-downness, it's up to the advertisement." He looked, musingly at the piteous wreck and ruin, his gaze sweeping down across the bare fields and unkempt forest. "Mine!" he repeated. "All that, I suppose, for it has the same earmarks of neglect. Between those cultivated stretches it looks like a wedge of Sahara gone astray." His gaze returned to the house. "Yet what a place it must have been in its time!" He went slowly back to where his conductor sat on the lichen horse-block.

"We's beah," called Uncle Jefferson cheerfully. "What we gwinter do nex', sub? Reck'n Ah better go ovah ter Miss Dandridge's place fer er crowbaw. Lawd!" he added, "et he ain't got de key! What yo' think ob dat now?"

John Vallant was looking closely at the big key; for there were words, which he had not noted before engraved in the massive flange. "Friends all hours." He smiled. The sentiment sent a warm current of pleasure to his finger-tips. Here was the very text of hospitality!

Dinner Stories

A benevolent old lady looked out of her parlor window one day and saw a man, walking up and down the sidewalk, apparently in great dejection. There was something pathetic and appealing in his manner, so she took a dollar bill, put it in an envelope and wrote on the envelope, "Never say die."

She slipped out of the house in the most casual manner she could assume and handed the envelope to the man as she passed him.

Next day the same melancholy man called at her house and presented her with $10.

"It's funny," he said, "you're the only one that backed that horse called Never Say Die."

"Yes," said Brown, "I have a wonderful dog. Only this morning, when I came down to breakfast, after a sleepless night and forgot to give his usual tit-bit, he went out into the garden, pulled up a bunch of flowers and laid them at my feet."

"And what were they?" inquired his friend. "Forget-me-nots," answered Brown as he hurriedly left the room.

Averse to Foreign Languages.

Victor Hugo found the knowledge of foreign languages a dangerous possession for an author. "I have long since regretted my folly in learning Spanish," he confessed to Henri Rochefort. "If you want to retain a perfect mastery of your native tongue avoid any acquaintance with other languages."

To the Middle-Aged. Say to yourself that you are entering upon the autumn of your life; that the graces of spring and the splendors of summer are irrevocably gone, but that autumn weather is often darkened by rain, cloud and mist, but the air is still soft, and the sun still delights the eyes, and touches the yellowing leaves, caressingly; it is the time for fruit, for harvest, for the vintage, the moment for making provision for the winter—Amiel's Journal.

The Largest Drop Forge Plant In The Business

TALKING of economizers—take our drop forge plant, which, while it is the largest in the business, is only one small part of our equipment.

Here we operate 40 large steam hammers with a combined striking power of 6,880,000 pounds or 3,440 tons.

Also there are over a dozen monster presses and ten Ajax forging machines.

There are two 5,000 pound hammers with a producing capacity of 750,000 pounds each; sixteen 2,000 pound hammers with a capacity of 200,000 pounds each; fourteen 1,500 pound hammers with a capacity of 150,000 pounds each, and eight 1,000 pound hammers with a capacity of 10,000 pounds each.

Now—

Take one example of the economy such equipment can effect:

Overland hammers have an attachment whereby the spring seat of a front axle is so perfectly formed (by the hammer blow) that it needs no additional machining.

This operation takes but 30 seconds. In smaller plants the same work by slow, small factory methods takes from 30 to 40 minutes.

And this is but one of the hundreds of different economies effected by our huge drop forge equipment.

Now do you see why the Overland costs you 30% less than any other similar car made?

See the 1914 Overland today. Phone us for an appointment.

Lighten The Burden

"I was always behind with my work until I answered a want ad in the columns of my home paper. Seems no matter how hard I worked I could not get caught up," said a serious faced little woman to her friend the other day. "Saw an ad of a woman who wanted work by the day or hour." This appealed to me, I answered it, with satisfactory results." "Secured a woman to help me one day each week who is really a treasure; who is a friend as well as a helper."

The woman she was talking to listened in silence, with a slightly incredulous smile. When the speaker had taken her departure she thought again of what she had said. She decided that she could at least try these want ads that her friend had been so enthusiastic over. The more readily as her friend was really a very conservative woman. She did so, and is today glad indeed of her trial. She found the want ad columns a genuine "first aid" in every sense of the word. If you are skeptical, try for yourself and find what we claim to be true, to be true.

"John" the Favorite.

A French journal has been digging into the soul of the young girl, and asking her what she wants in a husband as to color, age and name. The vast majority of 50,000 reply that they want a dark man of twenty-seven, and his name should be the French equivalent of John. None of your Algerians or Erics for the cautious damsel. None of your Hippolytes or Paulas—mercurial or subversive persons. They want John when it comes to husbands.

Raw Recruit's Mistake.

Pat had joined the navy, and was being drilled with his shipmates on a pier. "Fall in!" came the order. Immediately Pat fell into the water. "Two deep!" was the next order. Pat (spitting in the water)—"Bad scan to ye! Why didn't yiz tell me it was too deep before Oi fell in?"—Syracuse Herald.

Chatter

Never trust the man who deceives himself. Many a guilty person escapes because they are too small to be seen.

MARCH 30

A quiet Monday. Risk nothing. If this is your birthday do not speculate or trouble may occur in your affairs.

SEES 'FRISCO-PROFIT' BY PANAMA CANAL

Charles M. Schwab.

Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate on a recent visit to San Francisco, declared that the coast metropolis would benefit tremendously by the Panama canal. "If our company did not think so," he said, "it is self-evident that, instead of expending $2,000,000 in rebuilding the Union iron works and standing ready to expend unlimited money still further to extend it, we would be pursuing a vastly different policy."

"Everybody's doing it! Doing what? Reading the want ads."

Congressman Thetus W. Sims of Tennessee, ranking member of the house commerce committee, and W. C. Adamson of Georgia, chairman of the committee, are pushing Mr. Sims' bill for the repeal of the clause in the Panama canal act that provides for the exemption of tolls for American ships. The bill is expected to pass the house this week.

Spring Days Are Bicycle Days

No Sport So Healthful and Exhilarating. No Vehicle More Practical Than the Wheel.

There's the same variation in bicycles however as in every other thing—a poor one is expensive at any price and forever unsatisfactory. Purchases should be made with care and of a dealer who has some regards for reputation and the rights of the customer. The several cycles constituting the line handled by "The Bicycle Shop" are the best on the market and known the country over for high STANDARD and EFFICIENCY.
